Washington—Leaders of the Republican party from all sections of the country already are gathering in Washington for a series of important party conferences to be held soon after the funeral services for the late President Harding are concluded. Many of the leaders will go to Marion for the interment on Friday returning immediately to the capitol so that the conferences affecting the entire future of the G. O. P. may be begun by Monday next.

In a way, these conferences will be a parallel to the "debts minds" gatherings in Marion after the election of Mr. Harding and prior to his inauguration. There will be more of a party tinge to the Washington conferences, however, for it is realized that the death of President Harding almost on the eve of a new presidential campaign has confronted the Republicans with unexpected problems, requiring sound thought and mature judgment.

FOLLOWS HARDING'S IDEAS
A natural outgrowth of the first action of President Coolidge was to announce that he would forward in every way possible the policies of the Harding administration. This statement was taken, and should be taken, at its full value. It does not mean, however, that Mr. Coolidge will be barred from having some policies of his own, and it is in consideration of his course in that direction that the party leaders are so much interested.

Mr. Coolidge's first instincts are to consult as far as possible with his colleagues of the senate in mapping out his future political program. Like Mr. Harding, the new president has risen to the White House from the senate. Perhaps Mr. Coolidge expects the support of the senate, as Mr. Harding did, but all indications are that he will find the upper branch of Congress somewhat less than the president for more than two years extremely difficult to deal with. The senate, as at present constituted, does not go very much on sentiment. And furthermore there are a number of presidential bees buzzing in the senate. That will not make some of the senators predisposed to meekly follow the dictates of a new man in the White House who has east his own New England farmer's hat into the ring before many months have passed.

CONFERES WITH LEADER
President Coolidge recognizes that the senate will have much to do with his own career. That is why one of his first acts was to send for Senator Frank Brandegee, of Connecticut, and that is why his first Sabbath rest was broken for a two hours conference with the leader of the senate irreconcilables. Brandegee has already been one of the temper of the senate at the "battalion of death." He has not talked quite as much as some of the others, for he has no personal political ambitions to further but he has been an earnest worker in the ranks against anything that might commit the United States to any part or parcel of the league of nations of the world court which is functioning under the league. Mr. Coolidge has seen the effectiveness of Frank Brandegee on the senate floor and in the senate cloakrooms.

The new president, although in close association with the senate ever since March 4, 1921, has not made any particularly close friends in that body. He knew, however, that Brandegee would tell him the truth give him as nearly a correct estimate of the present temper of the senate as could any man in it. Brandegee is a plain spoken man. Some persons might call him blunt. Mr. Coolidge wanted to know the senate "from the inside." Frank Brandegee gave him what the man in the street would call the "low down."

TENSE SITUATION
It can be stated with all frankness that the senate story is not an altogether pleasing one to President Coolidge. Neither is it reassuring to the party leaders at large. The Republicans in the senate are torn into many factions. This is because so many of the senators are individualists first and party men second. Possibly some of them might place the party even further down on a consideration list. The mere fact that the party is facing a national crisis means nothing to the individualists. They had mapped out a course of action before President

Million German Marks Worth 28 Coppers Today

By Associated Press
New York — One million German marks could be purchased in the local market for 28 cents Tuesday, or only 4.2 cents more than the price of a single mark before the war. Tuesday's quotation quoted an overnight depreciation of 46 per cent, the rate Monday night being 52 cents a million. Saturday's rate was 90. Commercially, Germany's paper currency has been regarded as worthless for a long time. All business with that country has been done in the currencies of the United States, Great Britain, or neutral countries.

DEATH TRAIN HELD BACK BY DENSE CROWD

Thousands Flock To Railway Line To See Car Bearing Dead President

By Associated Press
Columbus, O., Ohio, where Warren G. Harding was born, grew into manhood, started the political career which carried him to the presidency, and where Friday he will be consigned to final rest. Tuesday showed its grief more poignantly than at any time since, almost unwarmed, its people heard the news of his passing.

For throughout the gray, early morning hours a funeral train was wending its way slowly through the state carrying the first citizen back to Washington to receive honors such as are accorded only a president.

Hours behind schedule because of the great crowds which sought to pay their last tribute as the cortege silently slipped onward, and because of the insistence of Mrs. Harding that travel be slow enough to permit all who had gathered to view the flower-decked coffin in its dimly lighted car, the train was greeted by throngs at every station and way place. From Hicksville, the first village encountered, to Youngstown, where the train slipped on into Pennsylvania, where thousands gathered to stand bareheaded in their grief until the last coach was out of sight.

WAIT FOR HOURS
Many basing their preparations on the original schedule, kept the vigil for hours, refusing to leave until the cortege arrived. Railroad stations were jammed from early evening in some cases until long after midnight, while in larger cities surging crowds burst through police lines and forced through trains to slow down. Almost every cross road had its quota of automobiles, the occupants of which watched the train as it passed, while they anxiously awaited the passing of their dead president.

At no place were there any demonstrations, the crowds contenting themselves with a brief glance at the death-bearing coach and then turning homeward as if for the first time coming to the full realization of their loss.

ARRIVAL POSTPONED
On Board Harding Funeral Train, Youngstown, O.—Inability to regain during the night, time lost yesterday caused railroad officials in charge of operation of the funeral train of President Harding to predict on arriving here at 9:10 Tuesday that it might be around 8 or 10 o'clock Tuesday night before arrival at Washington.

The train was scheduled to reach the capital at 120 P. M. but was not expected to arrive before midnight, the delay being caused in deference to Mrs. Harding's wishes to run slowly through communities desiring to pay tribute.

Early Monday night some success attended efforts to regain the lost time, but once the Ohio border was crossed, it became impossible to continue the efforts. Every cross road, every village, every town, and every city had its silent throng to pay a final mark of respect to the memory of the late president.

Most of them had waited patiently for hours and by direction of Mrs. Harding the train always slowed down.

First Conference As Chief

Calvin Coolidge held his first conference as president of the United States immediately after arriving in Washington, going into consultation with Secretary of State Hughes (center), now next in rank to the President, and Charles Curtis (right), Kansas senator and Republican "whip" in the Senate, at his temporary headquarters in a hotel.

Mrs. Harding Wants Husband's Body In Mausoleum

Maniac With Pistol Puts Town In Panic

Chicago—While inhabitants of Braceville, Ill., a village in Grundy county, twenty miles south of Joliet, hid in terror in their homes Monday, Charles Luth, 59 years old, suddenly turned maniac, ranged the village, revolver in hand, shooting at any and every thing he saw.

It is believed Luth, who once had been temporarily demented owing to the death by shooting of his son and by the burning of his daughter, was driven out of his senses again by the tragic death of Russell Gray, killed by lightning in Braceville on Saturday. He went to Joliet yesterday and purchased a revolver.

When his wife attempted to take it from him he struck her down with the barrel. A neighbor, Wallace Holmes, was shot in the leg. Then Luth started through the village and none dared leave their homes. Silence after some hours emboldened the people, however, and a search revealed Luth had fired two bullets into his brain. He is expected to die.

HARDING ESTATE SET AT $800,000

Sale Of Controlling Interest In Marion Star Nets More Than $500,000

Marion, O.—Close friends of President Harding Saturday night estimated that his estate probably was worth between $700,000 and $800,000. Before he assumed the presidency, Mr. Harding was regarded as wealthy, having amassed a fortune of some dimension from the Marion Star, the newspaper which he owned since 1854 until it was sold recently. The controlling interest, held by Mr. Harding, was said to have brought more than $500,000.

At one time or other Mr. Harding had been a stockholder in practically every industrial enterprise in Marion. At the time of his death he was a director in the Marion County bank, the leading financial institution of the city, and of the Home Building and Loan and Savings company.

Mr. Harding's last will, made just before he left Washington for Alaska, has not been probated.

Marion—President Harding will not be buried beside his mother and sister in the Marion cemetery. His body after the funeral services here Friday afternoon, will be placed in the receiving vault at the cemetery and held there pending the erection of a mausoleum to receive it.

In order that Mr. Harding's home folk and friends of his native state may have a last look at their departed friend, Mrs. Harding's plans call for the body to lie in state at the home of his father from noon after his arrival Thursday morning till nine o'clock Thursday night, and again for a few hours Friday forenoon. She would not approve tentative plans for the body to lie in state at the Marion co-cort house.

FUNERAL AT 3 P. M.
The funeral service at the Harding home will be conducted at 3 P. M. Friday. Complete detailed funeral plans, typewritten and approved by Mrs. Harding, will be placed in the hands of Attorney Hoke Donithen, chairman of the general committee on funeral arrangements by Dr. Carl W. Sawyer Tuesday morning.

Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, Mrs. Harding's personal physician, said that he found Mrs. Harding in much better physical condition than he had expected and expressed the belief that she would be able to bear up under the grief and strain.

Out of consideration for the people of the president's home, friends from Marion and other cities who had gathered in Willard to see the funeral train pass, were extended the first privilege of passing the coffin. They filed through the funeral car while trainmen were preparing the equipment for the next run.

Secretary Christian announced that no more floral tributes could be received even from friends of the president's home state, as the train now was already overloaded with such silent tokens of esteem.

COFFIN NOT OPENED
Even the plans approved by Mrs. Harding are contingent upon the condition of the body on its arrival from Washington. The coffin, it is said, had not been opened during the trip across the continent and would not be until it reached Washington.

The choir of Trinity Baptist church will sing the president's favorite hymns at the services.

The body will be borne in a hearse from the funeral train to the Harding home, and from the home to the cemetery. No caisson will be used in accordance with Mrs. Harding's desire that all military showing be held to the minimum.

The simple funeral was said to have been the late president's wish and this desire will be carried out as nearly as is humanly possible to do so.

Mrs. Harding, too, it was said, feels that after the state funeral ceremonies in Washington, the nation has relinquished all claim to him and that he once again is her husband, giving her the privilege to carry out his and her wishes.

The route to the cemetery will be west in Center-st to State, to Delaware, to the cemetery. Mrs. Harding vetoed tentative plans to have the funeral cortege pass down Main-st.

NEW DANCES PLANNED TO REPLACE SHIMMY

New York—Return of the old fashioned waltz and creation of an American tango, which will have as its foundation the best steps of other tangos, was predicted on Monday by Edward S. Hurst, Atlanta, Ga., at the opening of the convention of the International Association of Dancin' Masters. These dances, the speaker declared, would end immodest dancing and slapstick music.

Work On Plan For Honoring Dead Executive

Plans for honoring the memory of President Warren G. Harding during the hour of his funeral Friday afternoon are being made here on Tuesday. Hugh G. Corbett, secretary of the chamber of commerce, with the approval of the mayor, is arranging for a tribute to the late president. Definite plans probably will be announced on Wednesday.

It is proposed to hold a union service immediately following a 5-minute period during which there will be cessation of all activities while everyone stops in his tracks and silently meditates on the occasion.

POSSES HUNT FOR NEIGHBOR SLAYER

By Associated Press
Coudray—Posses were scouring the countryside about this Sawyer-co community Tuesday for William McCann, 56, who shot and killed Frank Allen, 46, on the road between Coudray and Lemington. The slaying was witnessed by a married woman with whom Allen was riding in an automobile.

McCann is said to have served five years at Waupun some years ago for shooting a man near New Auburn, Wis. McCann is believed headed for the farm of his brother Thomas McCann, near Sheldon.

The region in which McCann is being sought is not far from Cameron Dam where John Dietz resisted the officers of Sawyer-co in the fall of 1910.

CREAM CITY AWAITS FIRST OCEAN STEAMER IN AUGUST

Milwaukee—The first of a fleet of sixteen ocean freighters, which is expected to connect Milwaukee with Liverpool and Manchester and other European ports, is expected to arrive at the Crosby docks on Aug. 12 or 13, according to W. F. Dohan, manager of the Crosby line.

The boat which will leave Chicago on Aug. 10, will mark the entrance of Milwaukee into ocean traffic by direct route.

Mr. Dohan stated that he was expecting definite schedules and routes shortly. The boats will operate through the great lakes and the Welland canal.

SECOND VICTIM DIES IN STARVATION DEATH PACT

Carthage, Mo.—Death claimed the second victim of an apparent starvation pact when Miss Menna Cox, 37, was found dead at the county farm hospital here late on Monday.

The woman, so weak she could only crawl, was found on July 27. Keeping vigil over her dead sister, Miss Hilda.

The two women had exhausted a small fortune left by parents, but insisted to those who proffered aid that they "had plenty." They were without food about six weeks, except for berries picked along the roadside.

AXE MURDER CLEWS BRING NO RESULTS

Indications On Fifth Day Are That Case Will Remain Unsolved Mystery

Sauk City, Wis.—With the opening of the fifth day since Robert Jaeger, 62, the old hermit of Black Hawk was brutally murdered in his hut by a slayer seeking his hoarded money, indications were that the case will take its place at the end of a long list of unsolved Wisconsin crimes.

The solution of this slaying is equally as baffling to officials as the triple Balzer killing of a year ago at Cassel Prairie, ten miles away from the scene of Thursday night's attack. A steady rain which began after midnight and continued throughout the morning hours Tuesday increased the difficulties under which detectives were working and made progress in the case difficult.

It was learned, however, that two deputy sheriffs, mounted on motorcycles have been added to the squad of detectives and police officers which has been running down clews since the murder. They will scour the countryside for trace of the automobile which is believed to have visited the Jaeger farm the night of the slaying.

Clews held at various times by the detectives have since almost all run out without results.

AIRMEN FLY OVER LAKE MICHIGAN

Milwaukee—Two airmen, R. G. Conant, Westfield, Wis., and Montford Washburn, Milwaukee, in a land plane, crossed Lake Michigan at its widest point Tuesday, landing at Holland, Mich. in 57 minutes. The flyers were enveloped in a fog throughout the trip. This is the first time an airplane has crossed the lake. Hydroplanes have cruised half the distance at great altitudes but no land plane ever before essayed a long trip over the waters of the lake.

The pilots were flying under the banner of the Milwaukee Journal.

Apprehension was felt for a time for the safety of the pilots but late in the forenoon a telegram told of their arrival.

Relief Of Former Dual Monarchy By Foreign Capital May Be Precedent Which Will Save Germany From Ruin

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1923 by the Post Pub. Co. Special Cable to the Post-Crescent

(Because of the death of President Harding and the accession of Calvin Coolidge to the presidency, together with the consequent changes in the political situation, David Lawrence has curtailed his European trip and now is enroute to the United States. His daily dispatches, beginning Tuesday, will be wirelessly from the Steamship Leviathan, and will summarize the results of Mr. Lawrence's visits to Great Britain, France, Italy, Austria and Germany.)

Austria's evolution from a state of chaos, one year ago to relative stability and safety today is the most interesting story in the European world. For here at last has a formula been devised to rescue a nation from starvation and Communism, and to give it a chance to recover its economic equilibrium. What has been done in Austria may have to be done in Germany. Hence Austria is worth analyzing. Indeed, the plight of one country is so much like the plight of others and the interdependence of one on the other is so close that here in the heart of central Europe certain fundamental considerations arise which apply almost to the whole continent.

AUSTRIA LOST STRENGTH
First of all, statesmen may redraw the map of Europe politically but they cannot rearrange its economic life without seriously disturbing the whole continental structure. Small republics have been carved out of the old Austro-Hungarian empire but the many pieces are not as strong as was the Hapsburg entity. Here is Austria, for instance, rehabilitated through the help of American and European bankers and progress made under the loan of only $125,000,000 is remarkable, for the Austrian currency has been stabilized and business relatively speaking is wonderful.

ARNOLD ATTORNEY ASKS CONTINUANCE

Minister-Financier Pleads Not Guilty To Charge Of Attempt To Defraud

By Associated Press
Superior—A continuance of the trial of Victor H. Arnold, Madison, Wis., and Chicago minister and financier, charged with using the mails to defraud was requested by Attorney Hal Corbett of New York when federal court convened here Tuesday morning. The court recessed at 11 o'clock until 2 P. M. to permit the defense to prepare an affidavit setting forth the facts in the application, for a continuance.

The defendant entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned Tuesday morning. Immediately following the interpreting of the plea, the motion to continue was entered.

The motion was based upon an alleged sickness of Arnold which has left him, his attorneys stated, in weakened condition; the financial inability of the defendant to make arrangements to obtain services of a lawyer, whose home was nearer the Madison headquarters of the Madison Bond company headed by Arnold; and because of a newspaper article published, which the defense claimed was "invidious and adversely written to prejudice the jurors."

COUNTY PROBES DEATH OF VICTIM OF RAIL ACCIDENT

Portage — Columbia-co authorities are investigating the death of Harry Wenkman, 19, an employee of the Harley Davidson Motorcycle plant at Milwaukee, who died from injuries received under the wheels of a train here Sunday night.

It is believed that Wenkman was riding on the vestibule behind the locomotive of a passenger train and fell from the train while asleep.

Body Of Departed President Drawn On Sombre Gun Caisson

ESCORT DRAPED IN BLACK

Mrs. Harding Will Hold Death Watch With Close Friends In White House

Washington—Brooding skies, heavy with portents of storm, but broken occasionally by hot, hazy sunlight, hung over Washington through the last hours of waiting Tuesday for the funeral train bearing President Harding back to the ultimate honors his sorrowing countrymen can pay him.

Hour by hour, messages poured in telling of the slowing pace of the train as crowds forced changes in the schedule that they might pay their silent tribute. It seemed likely that darkness would fall before the flag-draped caisson could be laid for its brief space of quiet in the east room of the White House.

Plans for the reception of the dead were unchanged except at the slow hours of waiting were dragged long and longer as Ohio and Pennsylvania towns through which the train crawled lavished its "voiceless acclaim" at the hie of their dead Ohioan. At whatever hour it came, Washington would be waiting, hushed, reverent, sorrowful.

Washington—A city of mourning awaited Tuesday to pay supreme tribute at the bier of Warren G. Harding before his body is taken to its final resting place in the Ohio soil among the kindred and neighbors he loved and who loved him, not for the greatness of his place in life, but for the generous heart so suddenly stilled in death.

Before the long special train, with its front of soldiers in gray uniforms, the folk of Washington, high and low, had begun to gather along the way to the White House. Reports of the train's delay had not altered the plan of thousands here to be in their places early. Steel cables that but a short time ago held back rolling thousands gathered for a shiner's convulse, in which the president played so large a part, again stirred Pennsylvania, as this time to edge the ranks of silent humanity waiting patiently through the summer heat to glimpse the caisson as it rolled by behind the clattering escort. As the hour of arrival drew near, the machinery of government ceased to move, the great departments of government grew blank and silent, and the thousands of government workers trooped out to do homage to other citizens in the sorrowful throngs. There were no ceremonies planned aside from the brief military honors at the station and again at the White House.

The marine band was to play as the caisson will be carried and lifted with gentle hands to the black wheeled gun limber that awaited it.

COOLIDGE ARRANGES DETAILS
President Coolidge and the few cabinet members in Washington upon whom has fallen the sad duty of planning the honors to be paid in the name of a hundred million Americans to the fallen chiefman, arranged their program so as to be gathered at the station only a short time before the funeral train was to appear, and to assemble in the president's waiting room, designed especially for the welcoming of new presidents and of honored guests of the nation. By that route came many great men to Washington in the past. Thus came the men of place and power in Europe during the war to consult as to America's part in that great adventure; thus Pershing came to receive the thanks and the plaudits of a grateful nation; thus came Harding himself only two years ago, walking strongly, his wide shoulders erect, his face lifted, his eyes alight with elation yet showing the thoughtful resolve to spare himself nothing of his best endeavor in the nation's service.

That service was given lavishly; so lavishly that death swept down with terrible suddenness to check him in full course and turn him back to come again to Washington through the president's room, but this time sleeping in a flag-draped caisson freed from the cares of the great office that sapped his life away.

Before, when Harding came to claim the post his countrymen had given him, cheers and shouting greeted him as he stepped out under the arched entrance of the president's room to see the wide flung plans packed with happy people waving him friendly acclaim. A little beyond towered the gray dome of the capitol where he had sat through contented years as senator, with flags streaming from the staffs on senate and house wings, the door to the great labors he was to know.

In preparation for his expected return Tuesday flags were drooping at half mast from the triple staffs that

MERCHANTS MUST PUT MORE STRESS ON 'SELLING END'

Trained Salespeople Only Salvation of Retailers, Experts Advise

Admonition to the merchant to find out how much each salesperson is earning for the business, and a suggestion to salespeople to learn to increase the amount of the average sale to each customer were contained in the address of G. W. Sulley of Dayton, Ohio, at a meeting of more than 60 persons from various store organizations at the chamber of commerce rooms Monday evening.

Mr. Sulley showed how costly it is to the average store to put a salesperson to work without training him in salesmanship. He made it plain that modern retailing success depends on a training school for the person behind the counter, whether the store is large or small.

Manufacturers place the quality in the goods, but the store itself manufactures quality of service, the speaker said. It is the establishment that keenly interests itself in everybody that comes to its counters, no matter how small or large the purchase, that adds one story after another to its building, he said.

The speaker described the experiences of merchants as the basis of his talk, and used check drawings and cost and sales tabulations to illustrate his points. He presented what to many was an entirely new analysis of retailing, and in showing the cost of the average sale of each person in the store, indicated where some of the principal losses come, how easily a store can run behind, and how just a little more effort on the part of the sales organization would turn a losing business into a highly profitable one.

More time will be devoted by the merchant of the future to the selling activities of his business, said Mr. Sulley. He spends about 25 per cent of his time in that direction now, but will increase this to 50 per cent. No matter how much careful buying, advertising and window trimming they do, people do not buy goods until they come to the counter. It is up to the salespeople then to sell the goods, and more and more attention will be devoted to their proper training.

Population has increased 14 per cent, but attendance at high schools has increased 25 per cent and that of universities 350 per cent. This means that the sales methods of four or five years ago won't move merchandise now. People formerly bought by price, but they are buying more on the basis of quality now, and pay the cost of obtaining better goods.

Mr. Sulley declared that 47 per cent of all who enter stores leave without buying because of lack of service. He also said that the average net profit for all department stores in the country last year was only 2.7 per cent.

It is necessary for the merchant to have a knowledge of the cost of waiting on each customer and the amount of the average sale; to know that clerks' salaries do not exceed a safe percentage of total sales; and to know how to increase the average sale each person makes.

This Man Wasn't Half So Crazy As Informant Thought

"Say, send the wagon down to the cemetery. There is a crazy man down here fishing from the edge of my father's grave."

That was the strange call received by Sergeant Earl Vandebogart at the Appleton police station Sunday.

Detective John Duval and Driver Albert Delting hurried to the cemetery prepared for the straight jacket act. After reconnoitering about the grounds they found a man with a hook and line.

When they asked him what he was doing, he replied in words that to the officers sounded like "Fishing for gold fish." The officers looked at each other as if to say, "Flumb nutty, all right."

But upon further questioning, they found that the fisherman was after different kind of game. The bait tied to the hook was intended for gophers. Gopher fishing is a sport that is not so well known in this region as, for instance, in Minnesota, the gopher state. When the gopher comes out of the hole to nibble at the bait, a yank at the line brings him up just like a fish. They are caught for the county they bring.

After this interesting experience, the officers decided to pass the buck to Joseph Bayer, motorcycle officer, who was called out on the same wild man hunt only to return a wiser man.

BRIDGE THREATENED BY FIRE IN OIL POOL

Fire started from a pool of oil below the trestle of the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power company on Lake street near South Island-st at about 4:20 Monday afternoon and ignited the ties of the street car track on the bridge. The damage, however, was not great, as the ties were not more than scorched, according to the firemen.

A small pool of oil had gathered in the rock river bed which was dry at this particular place. The oil had dripped from a drain of a gas main above. Probably the flipping of a match or cigarette stub caused the oil to ignite and send the flames up to the ties of the bridge. The blaze was extinguished by firemen with the aid of chemicals.

AGED MAN KNOCKED DOWN BY CAR; BADLY BRUISED

Myron Ford, 76, was considerably bruised when he was struck by an automobile while crossing the street at the corner of Oneida and Hancock-sts at 7:30 Tuesday morning. He was conveyed to the home of his niece, Mrs. C. V. Perrino, 515 Hancock-st, where he was staying. An examination by a physician showed he had suffered wounds on his forehead, nose, right arm and elbow. The automobile was owned by Albert Koenig, who lives on a rural route out of Malone, Wis.

FRIGHTENED FRIENDS START DROWNING STORY

An unfounded report was circulated in Appleton Monday to the effect that John Herziger of Neenah, owner of the Neenah, Doty and Orpheum theaters of that city, had lost his life the day previous while swimming near Clark's Point, Lake Koshong.

Mr. Herziger, who was spending the day at his lodge, swam out into the lake a long distance, and when he did not return when expected by his friends it was feared he had drowned. Word reached Appleton that he had lost his life but later was denied when Mr. Herziger returned from his swim very much alive.

Farwell Meeting

At a meeting of the Employed Boys Brotherhood at the Y. M. C. A. Monday evening, Marvin Vaughan, who is about to make his home at Seattle, Wash., was made an honorary member, and the secretary, Carl Wennerstrand, was instructed to write a letter of recommendation in his behalf to the Employed Boys Brotherhood of Seattle. A weekend outing at Ridge Point was planned.

NOT EDUCATED

Yesterday afternoon while in Woolworth's 5 and 10 cent store I saw a young lady carrying a vanity bag which by accident she bumped against the counter. It opened as it fell and a package of cigarettes rolled out as it landed on the floor. The lady probably not having the tact of opening the package on one corner like the men, has opened it all the way across the top and as the package fell the cigarettes nicely streamed out over the floor. Blushing with embarrassment and in great haste the unfortunate party swiftly gathered them in her bag and closed it.

It is probable, however, that a few other members will also attend the meetings a part of the time. Elaborate plans have been made for the entertainment of the firemen.

PAPER COMPANY LEASES OFFICES

Combined Locks Company To Move To Insurance-Bldg.—Defer Building Plans

Erection of an office building has been given up for the present by Combined Locks Paper company and quarters will be taken instead in the Insurance-bldg. The company has leased all the offices on the west side of the building in the third floor except the front room, which already has another tenant. The lease is for three years.

Possession of the new quarters will be taken about Sept. 1, depending on alterations which are being made. The company recently sold its office building at the corner of College-ave and Appleton-st, formerly the First National bank building, to M. Spector, Jeweler. The offices were moved to the second story of the building temporarily several weeks ago.

A corner lot on Allen and Kimball-sts opposite the vocational school was purchased by the company from P. M. Conkey earlier in the year with the intention of putting up a building there but this plan has been abandoned for the present.

REPORT WEDNESDAY ON NEW INDUSTRIES

A report on the three industries which are considering Appleton as a location will be given by the industrial finding committee at the meeting of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce Wednesday night.

The committee has made extensive investigations and has conferred personally with the men at the head of the concerns as to their desires and proposition for establishing factories here.

Some consideration also will be given highway matters, inasmuch as the state highway commission intends to add to its trunk artery system in the state soon.

NOT EDUCATED

Yesterday afternoon while in Woolworth's 5 and 10 cent store I saw a young lady carrying a vanity bag which by accident she bumped against the counter. It opened as it fell and a package of cigarettes rolled out as it landed on the floor. The lady probably not having the tact of opening the package on one corner like the men, has opened it all the way across the top and as the package fell the cigarettes nicely streamed out over the floor. Blushing with embarrassment and in great haste the unfortunate party swiftly gathered them in her bag and closed it.

'MYSTERY' FIRES ARE PREVENTABLE, STATE WARNING

Spontaneous Combustion Common Cause Of Fires At This Season

The "dog days" is the season of mysterious fires, according to a warning received by the Appleton fire department from the Wisconsin industrial commission. The majority of these "seasonable" fires, while apparently of a mysterious origin, really are preventable and the commission's bulletin points out the ways many of these blazes start.

The commission's letter follows: "This is the time for awning fires, due to office men flipping cigarette butts out through windows, lightning fires in buildings not redressed, or redressed improperly, and fires due to spontaneous ignition of substances.

"All are preventable. "Spontaneous combustion is the ignition of a substance by internal development of heat and without external contact with spark or flame.

"Spontaneous ignition often takes place in waste, rags, clothes, cotton, sawdust and other substances impregnated with oil.

"Lime and other vegetable and animal oils and fats especially absorb oxygen quite rapidly and thus sufficient heat is produced to set the oily substance on fire.

"About 200 such fires occur each year in Wisconsin causing an annual fire loss of $30,000 or more.

"Such fires often occur in cellars, attics, closets, warehouses, shops and other out-of-way places, not under constant observation, and spread rapidly fed by highly combustible materials. Often such fires have a good start before being discovered and cause much damage.

"New schools, churches, factories, and residences, and other undergoing repairs or renovation are often the prey of flames, because some painter or house keeper has left some oily waste, paint rag or oily mop in contact with woodwork or combustible material.

"The prevention of such fires is simple and inexpensive. Care and good house keeping will make these "mysterious" fires impossible.

"Only waste and rags used during the day should be kept in standard self-closing metal cans and should be burned or otherwise destroyed at the close of the day.

"Only metal filings, borings and cuttings, leather scraps, and excelsior, cloths or mops used for rubbing painted or varnished furniture or floors or sawdust impregnated with oil should never be permitted on work benches, on wooden floors or in contact with any other woodwork, but should be cleaned up and removed or destroyed. Oily clothing should be hung on a masonry wall only or stored in well ventilated metal lockers. Ink rags and cloths, used to wipe rollers in print shops and lithograph establishments should be destroyed after use.

"Most sweeping compounds contain oil and the only safe storage is in a covered metal container. Floor oils and "dust preventatives," and cloths used in applying them are all dangerous and should be destroyed or properly stored.

"Improperly cured hay, and damp grain are subject to spontaneous ignition. Proper curing and drying and good ventilation of haylofts and granaries is the remedy."

Grandstand In Seymour Park Will Seat 3,000

BY W. F. WINSEY
DESCRIBING the new grandstand soon to be completed by Seymour fair association, George Fiedler, secretary of the fair says: "It is the finest grandstand to be found in Wisconsin and has more good points than any of the others." The seating is so arranged that the spectator from his seat commands an unobstructed view of the entire grounds and standing or passing people cannot interfere with his line of vision. No other grandstand in the state is so provided with this modern improvement.

The stand is 60 by 220 feet, took six carloads of lumber to build, and has a seating capacity of 3,000. It has three entrances—one at either end and one in the middle that is reached by a wide, easy stairway from the lower story. This stairway is reached by a broad alley or driveway through the middle of the lower story reaching from one end to the other.

The front of the stand is occupied by two rows of boxes each 6 by 8 feet, 66 in number, that will accommodate 500 people. In the rear of these rows of boxes the floor space resembles a gigantic stairway with steps three feet wide and 220 feet long. On each of these steps, a number of very comfortable benches are arranged, each about 12 feet long with spaces at the ends for aisles between them. The benches are placed in such a way that the feet of a person in a rear seat cannot interfere with a person in front. The benches are fastened with hinges in such manner that the bench may be tipped forward.

In the lower story, as has been said, an alley extends through the middle of the stand. On either side of this alley the space is divided into roomy, well-lighted booths. The community displays probably will be assigned to the front rows of these booths and automobile displays to the rear row.

Doors of large dimensions that open upward to admit light and at the same time to act as shades, reach the entire length of the stand and serve each booth.

All this is for the comfort of people who attend the fair. For the amusement and entertainment of the same people, Secretary Fiedler says that 2,000 worth of fireworks will be exploded on the evenings of the fair.

Baseball games will be played on August 22 and 23. George Gano, holding three world's records, earned in team race, four wheel race and saddle race, owned by George Lawler, Seymour, will be on exhibition each day of the fair.

A lone pacer, owned by Otto Bones, Luxemburg, will perform on the track. The Seymour concert band and a ladies' band from Luxemburg, consisting of 1 piece, will furnish the music.

Eight free acts will be performed daily in front of the grandstand. According to C. J. Jackson, superintendent of the speed department, 13 horses now are in training on the track for the races. Pacing, trotting and derby saddle races will be entertainment features on Wednesday and Thursday.

Secretary Fiedler says that an expert judge will have charge of each department of exhibits. W. W. Kenyon, Eau Claire, will be judge of the livestock department; George Wells Oshkosh, will judge the poultry department; Robert E. Amundson will judge the dairy products department, and Barbara Masonnett, Appleton, will determine prize winners in the fancy work and pantry stores.

The contract for the new high school building at Weyauwega on which two Appleton construction firms submitted figures was awarded to Lempe Construction company of Clintonville for $86,994. The highest bid submitted was $125,277.

The bidders and figures submitted by them were: Appleton Construction company, Appleton, $112,671; Lempe Construction company, Clintonville, $86,994; L. T. Schroeder company, Fond du Lac, $125,277; A. Nielsen company, Neenah, $117,000; Fluor Bros., Oshkosh, $118,100; C. R. Meyer & Sons company, Appleton, $125,127; A. Bauregard, DePere, $109,856; C. P. Cullen & Sons, Janesville, $100,420.

The skeleton of an Indian was turned up with the plow and in connection with a large number of other interesting Indian relics and evidences of Indian life. The remains were found only about eight inches below the soil. While the plow disturbed the position of the bones, it was believed the old warrior was lying face downward in his shallow grave.

In the immediate vicinity of the grave, bits of pottery, arrow heads and the like have been found in great quantities, leading to the belief that a large Indian camp once flourished on that spot.

Not far from the spot where the Indian was found is the grave of Augustin, Grignon, supposed to have been the first white fur trader in Winnebago county and this site has been located and marked by the Winnebago Historical society.

The Nichols farm, near where the graves are located, is also said to be rich in Indian lore and some seventy-five years ago was the old government payhouse, to which the Indians came for gold in exchange for payment on their land. Old settlers of that vicinity relate stories of having seen piles of gold distributed to the Indians in the house.

The skeleton recently found has been placed in the Indian collection of George Overton, whose farm adjoins the Nichols estate, which has also produced many Indian relics of historical value.

Work on the picture had been suspended for months while Mr. Ince waited for news that a forest fire such as he wanted to film had broken out in northern California. When word was flashed to his studio that a forest ranger was preparing to clear out a timber tract in northern California he summoned his company and with his directors and camera men rushed to the scene, where the principal of the cast played the thrilling climax of the play.

With the flames leaping high over their heads and the roar of the burning forest making conversation almost impossible, the company coolly went about the business of acting the scene while the camera men turned the cranks of their machines.

Suddenly the wind veered and the flames, eating their way through the branches overhead, jumped the distance of a city block. Another shift in the wind and a blazing sheet of fire began circling back to entrap the actors. Experienced woodsmen warned the company of its imminent danger and helped them to escape. Five minutes later the "location" on which the company had been working was a roaring inferno. They had escaped none too soon.

"Scars of Jealousy," in which the thrilling forest fire scenes are depicted, is showing at the Elite theatre today and tomorrow.

INCOME TAX OFFICES ARE NOT TO BE CLOSED

Garbling of a statement made by Anton Oppgaard, acting assessor of incomes, that lack of funds might lead to the consolidation of some income offices drew a rebuke from T. E. Lyons of the state tax commission last week.

The report was spread that the Appleton office as well as the Oshkosh office would be discontinued. This report was denied by Mr. Lyons.

J. P. Keating, income tax assessor at Oshkosh, has resigned Lyons said, but this place will be filled and the office continued. It is temporarily being taken care of by the assessor at Fond du Lac.

FARMER-CITY MEETING PLAN LIKED IN OSHKOSH

As an outgrowth of a series of farm-business meetings being held in Outagamie co., a similar series of conferences is being arranged in Winnebago co. to be held this summer and next winter to aid both the farmer and the business man.

Meetings in the fall will be held in the country—the business men going into the rural districts to meet the farmers—and in the winter the farmers will come to the city to meet the business interests. This plan was agreed upon last week at a meeting of members of the Association of Commerce and representatives of the Farm bureau.

RETAILER HOLDS KEY TO BUSINESS CONDITION IN U. S.

Quality Of Service Is What Makes Business Grow, Sulley Tells Lions

The retailer holds the key to the business condition of this country in the future, G. W. Sulley of the National Cash Register Co., Dayton, Ohio, told the Lions club and its guests at the weekly luncheon in the Conway hotel Monday noon. No man can accurately predict world business conditions in the next six months, he said, but the average merchant will be more affected by conditions and methods in his own store than business condition of the world.

Mr. Sulley illustrated his talk with charts to effectively point out bad practices in retailing. He said that his talk probably will be received as the "same old stuff" but it is constant application of this "same old stuff" that makes for success in the retail business.

dising is necessary for retailers to make money in their business."

Mr. Sulley stressed that the hope of the retailer is in more extensive selling and this can be accomplished by making a careful analysis of his selling forces and an effort to train his salespeople to make a sufficient number of sales of sufficient volume to return a profit on their work.

"Quality of service, more than quality of merchandise is what makes a business grow," he said. "The human element is the important factor in selling. A salesperson adequately trained in the responsibility of his work has just as much opportunity to grow as the store has."

AMENDING THE ZONING ORDINANCE

Attorney F. S. Bradford, a member of the city planning commission, has taken the tenable position that the efficacy of the zoning ordinance here is threatened by frequent changes that are being made by the common-council. Mr. Bradford did not criticize the amendments and changes that have been made thus far, but warned against making a hodge-podge of a plan that was submitted after weeks of investigation and study.

When the zoning ordinance and the city plan was adopted it was hailed as the most progressive step taken by the council in many years. It also was pointed out that the ordinance would be effective for the purpose for which it was prepared only if upheld by the council.

The Post-Crescent does not wish to appear as a critic of the changes that have been made thus far. Perhaps the aldermen, after investigation and study, are sure that the creation of new business and commercial districts are for the best interests of the people as a whole. The interests of the entire city, not of individuals or of parts of the city, should be the only consideration which should move the council to make changes in the plan it has adopted.

Mr. Bradford's position that frequent changes in the city plan will defeat its purpose is well taken, and should receive the approbation of Appleton people. The plan which establishes definite boundaries for various kinds of businesses and for residences was prepared as a protection to property holders. If owners of property have no assurance that the zoning ordinance is a protection to them the entire scheme is worthless. The council will do well to heed Mr. Bradford's suggestion that it go slowly and carefully in ordering changes, making its investigations as carefully as the planning commission did when it prepared the original plan.

COOLIDGE AS PRESIDENT

The political consequences of the death of President Harding will be far reaching. For the moment the effects are obscure, but they will be rapidly disclosed as the days slip by between now and the nominating conventions early next summer. The future is confused by the sharp differences of policy within the Republican party and by the ambition of a fair sized field to drive the presidential wagon. If the convention were to be held today it would be attended with the utmost uncertainty. The farmer-labor element by combining with politicians like Hiram Johnson and Senator Borah might make a strong bid for control, although there is every reason to believe they would be considerably short of control. Mr. Magnus Johnson and Senator LaFollette would whoop it up powerfully, and the western spirit of action would heave mightily, but eastern, central and southern reserve would prevail.

We do not think the cause of the radicals is improved by the untimely death of Mr. Harding. Circumstances are relentlessly forcing progress of the saner sort as well as intelligent perspective upon the Republican party. It is fortunate that a man of the type of Calvin Coolidge, with a name as full of significance as his New England environment, should succeed to the vacancy in the White house. He gives promise of being the man of the hour for the hour. It may not be too much to regard him as an intervention of providence. Mr. Coolidge is a man of great common sense, reverential, with a homely way of doing things and a vigorous way of saying things, backed by a dependable will. He has a sort of Lincolnian and Adamsonian background combined.

Mr. Coolidge's abilities are not known. He has a record in Massachusetts that has attracted national attention, but the presidency is another matter. All his utterances indicate balance and capacity. He has no factional alliances to embarrass him and no promises to obligate him. There is the inferred obligation to carry out the policies of his predecessor, but even here he has wide latitude to form and follow his own judgments. Mr. Roosevelt cannot be said to have been faithful to Mr. McKinley, yet his administration was of a radically different nature.

Mr. Coolidge has it easily within his power to take the Republican nomination next year against all comers. He is at once elevated to a position of commanding prestige. He is a type not easily read, with unknown powers in reserve that arouse public expectancy and invite confidence. He takes office with the respect and good will of the people, particularly the farmers, who like his homely ways and who look to his own love of the farm for sympathy and guidance. They believe him to be a plain man, whose purpose is to serve the plain people of the country equally and without favor. He is a strong constitutionalist and can be relied upon to uphold our institutions. He will have no patience with radicalism where it seeks to undermine these institutions or to overthrow our government. Every word that he speaks will be weighed and scrutinized. The people are ready to follow him, we think, for they have attributed to him both wisdom and strength. There is a desire for men of humble origin, men who have come up from the bottom, so to speak, whose experience have taught them the viewpoint of the people at large.

Mr. Coolidge will be beset by all sorts of groups and individuals to do this and to refrain from doing that. He will be urged to call a special session of congress and to act hurriedly on a multitude of subjects. We do not think he will be stampeded into mistakes that these elements might easily lead him into. We think he will keep a level head and we look for progressive policies. He has ten months in which to make a reputation that will elect him to the presidency. It is time enough and we believe he will take good advantage of it. If he does the political problems that up to now have seemed so complicated and at times even sinister have already been solved.

TOO MUCH LAW

There are a certain number of Sunday blue laws on the statute books of every state. We have them in Wisconsin and they have them in surrounding states. Over at Ludington, Michigan, they have had a sudden inspiration to virtue and spirituality and they are attempting to enforce laws which would prevent persons from engaging in sports or pastimes on the Sabbath.

We refer to this not because there is any particular significance in the reform wave that has taken hold of Ludington. It will last only a short while. These revivals are spasmodic and seldom amount to much. The significance is in the relation these laws bear to the universal disrespect of law in America. Let us cite a glaring example in the state of Wisconsin. At the session preceding the last one the legislature enacted a bill to do away with excessively strong lights on automobiles. It was known as the anti-glare law. Notice was given that it would be rigorously enforced, and owners were given a brief period in which to comply with its provisions. It was designed to promote safety and comfort in driving.

For a few months the law was enforced, and then it was forgotten. Today nobody pays the slightest attention to it. It is the same with the authorities. If cars come equipped with anti-glare lights well and good; if not it is the same. We venture the assertion that there are easily 1,000 automobiles in Outagamie county whose lights violate this law. It is much the same with all law. People obey or not as they are disposed. They have no respect for law. They like to put it over on the authorities if they can by violating law. Many law transgressions are treated as good jokes. People forget that such acts are an insult to the government which protects them and to which they owe allegiance.

The disrespect for law will not, however, be cured by appeals to conscience and loyalty. It will be cured only when our legislators quit grinding out silly laws on impulse or in compliance with propaganda and lobbying by fanatics and organizations that desire to impose their social and moral views on humanity. The anti-glare law is a good law, but we would be better off without it; better off without all laws that we do not respect and obey.

WHY NOT TRY A BRAN MASH?

The eating of wheat bran has become a common practice among people who desire to keep well. In many instances this practice has proved particularly beneficial in improving or regulating intestinal function and freeing the individual from the pill habit. There is no ground for the gratuitous suggestion that bran used separately irritates or injures the lining of the stomach and intestines; on the contrary these organs are commonly benefited by the use of bran.

Hindhede, the great Danish authority on nutrition, declares that wheat bran is one of our most valuable articles of nourishment, and that the experimental studies carried on by himself and co-workers, with men as the subjects, have proved that man, as well as the domestic animals, can digest bran; the correctness of this observation has been confirmed by other competent nutrition experts. The notion or theory which has obtained in this country that bran has no nutritive value and is indigestible for man, has no scientific basis as the teaching of such men as Hindhede, and Johnson of Stockholm and Wiegner of Zurich, who agree that wheat bran is not only digestible but reasonably nutritious for man.

Another important point which Hindhede emphasizes is that the bran contains the vitamins (the fat soluble one which prevents rickets, and the water soluble one which prevents polyneuritis in fowl and beri beri in man.) Every household should keep a supply of wheat bran on hand and use it in various ways regularly. The bran as it comes from the mill is perfectly fit for the kitchen; no particular preparation is required, except cooking. The raw bran is perfectly wholesome for anybody to eat if he likes it raw. I have given various recipes for including bran on previous occasions. I'll repeat some of them here, but I beg that readers will not ask me to send them copies for I'd have an enjoyable time at a progressive euchre party compared with the business of writing recipes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

How? You Have Your Bran?

One good way to take bran is by mixing a few spoonfuls with your cereal, if you eat a cereal for breakfast. The bran may be taken in this way raw, or mixed before cooking the cereal.

A Plain Mash

Some folks take their bran "as is," chewing the raw or swallowing it with a little water, enough to waxy down a few spoonfuls a day.

Bran Gems

Where there is need for filler for the hired man, along with something sure to tickle his palate, it is hard to beat bran gems. To make 'em, put on your overalls and give one egg a sound beating; add a pinch of salt, a hunk of butter the size of a walnut, melted, one cupful each of sweet milk, wheat flour, and wheat bran, and finally a teaspoonful of baking powder. Bake in gem tins.

Bran Cookies

For a bedtime nibble, if you have this healthful habit, bran cookies please all tastes. Here is a bran cookie gum dipped, nonskid and warranted to travel 24 feet in 12 hours.

One cup wheat bran, one cup white flour, one cup sugar, one-half cup graham flour, one-half cup milk, one fourth cup molasses, two tablespoonsful butter or lard, one egg; two teaspoonfuls baking powder; one-half teaspoonful salt. Ten ingredients—count 'em. Beat together the butter, egg, milk and sugar. Add the other ingredients. Drop the mixed batter with a spoon onto well greased tins. Bake half an hour in a hot oven. Go to the door and call "Oo-ho, Arthur!" Art will be glad he heard you calling him.

A STUDY IN MARBLE

We were sure we could get past that culvert before the spoony couple coming from the opposite direction. Suddenly the young man's pride was aroused, and he beat us to the creek. Forced to turn sharply to one side we ran into a headstone in a little cemetery. "This is a grave situation," murmured the mother-in-law in the rear.

"I can't find it," said the cub reporter.

"Can't find what?" kindly asked the society ed.

"The telephone number of G. R. Ness garage."

Dear Rollo: I notice that Hiram Johnson has gotten a building permit to erect a porch on North-st, and you let that one go as if Appleton is used to having future presidents living here.

GIDDY GAPPER.

Yes, we also noticed that Avery and Walt blew in here, but was there a reception committee at the city limits?

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THE FARM

(Second of a series by Cy Tizen, famous philosopher and business Ann Elizer, who says he is going to help the farmers get rich or bust.)

Dear Rollo: Today's reason why the farmer can't buy a new automobile this fall and enjoy prosperity otherwise like everyone of us city people does is that the cows don't give enough milk and what they do give is not fat enough.

Well, as with my usual kind disposition to help solve the farmer's problems, I'll tell how to remedy this. Most every farm is located on an automobile highway now, and there are so many women in knickers and Vaseline with sideburns and oiled hair that the cows, "also the bulls," just can't keep their eyes off the constant stream of passing machines. Well they spend so much time rubbing their eyes that they forget to get milk, and drink water so the farmer won't have to put it in afterward, and the yield consequently declines. And they've read so much about the disadvantages of being fat and the ways of reducing that they take rolling exercises in the field every day. That's why their milk is so skinny or skinnny.

To overcome this a certain should be placed on the roadside of the pasture and the subscriptions to farm and women's magazines should be stopped so the bovines won't get these new-fangled ideas.

CY TIZEN.

When a man is paying on an automobile, the least the grocer can do is to have a little patience, complaints Jake.

Don't forget the booster game between Appleton and Menasha at Brandt park, Wednesday.

Kipling Would Fail Today In English Exam

(Stephen Leacock, in Vanity Fair.) It is an amazing fact, but it is nevertheless true that Rudyard Kipling or Sir James Barrie, or let us say, ex-president Elliot of Harvard, would fail hopelessly in English if they tried to pass the entrance examination of any American or Canadian university. King George, from whom presumably the King's English flows as from its fountain source, might get perhaps half-way through a high school in the subject.

As for Shakespeare, I doubt if he knew enough of what is called English by our education departments to get beyond a kindergarten. As to passing an examination on one of his own plays, such as is set by our colleges for matriculation, he couldn't have done it. He had the brains, at least not the kind of brains that are needed for it.

These are not exaggerations, they are facts. I admit that, when the facts are not good enough, I always exaggerate them. This time they don't need exaggeration.

Our study of English—not merely in any one state or province but all over North America, except in happy Mexico—begins with years and years of silly stuff called grammar and rhetoric. All the grammar that any human being ever needs or that is of any use as an intellectual training, can be learned in a few weeks from a little book as thin as a Ritz-Carlton sandwich. All the rest of the solid manuals on the subject is mere stodge. It serves no other purpose than to put royalties into the pockets of the dull pedants who elaborate it.

Rhetoric is worse. It lays down laws for the writing of sentences and paragraphs about as reasonable and as useful as a set of directions telling how to be a gentleman, or how to have a taste for tomatoes.

15 Depositories
In A Man's Suit

(From The New York Sun.)

"Got anything in the pockets?" asks the tailor. And you investigate and you find a handkerchief and six cents that you overlooked. The tailor smiles at the question in your face—smiles reminiscently, and if he isn't too busy he will tell you:

"Ever since a guy came taking in here and accused me of raking a $100 bill he said he had forgotten I asked everybody if there's anything in the pockets. That fellow swore I was a crook and brought in two cops and I thought for awhile I'd have to say, 'Good morning judge.'"

If you and the tailor have a few more minutes to spend he will tell you he finds many odds and ends. The male of the species, you know, has five pockets in his coat, and sometimes six. Then he has five trousers in his vest and five in his drawers—a total of at least 15.

A good many things can be stowed away in 15 pockets. Penknives, letters, and handkerchiefs are probably the most common, but if the tailor is not careful his pressing machine or his flat run over a match end and before he knows it a hole has been scorched in the cloth. His fingers become deft in exploring corners.

The tailor avows he is not legally responsible for matters left there. Even so, one tailor seemed for a time either obliged to make good a new suit or receive an A-I fancy punch in the nose for a difficulty that was hardly his fault.

His iron, he said, went over a vest pocket and suddenly there appeared a strange red stain on the surface of the cloth. Investigation showed that a small piece of colored paraffine pencil, such as is used to check forms in a packing room, had been left there. Heat from the flat had melted it and the stain quickly spread to the size of a half dollar. The paraffine resisted every means employed to take it out and the owner of the vest was about as hot as the flatiron when he saw it.

There are coins and buttons, strings and fountain pens, cigarettes and love letters, the tailor finds. Currency becomes wadded and overlooked. Food crumbs, tobacco crumbs, lodge receipts and locks of hair are found.

"But about that?" you ask the tailor—what about that?

"Oh, that?" The con told him he didn't have any very good evidence that I had taken it and he'd better look around again at home. A little while later he came back and apologized. He said his wife had taken it to buy a new coat."

GOODBYE AND GOOD LUCK

LEAGUE RESTORES AUSTRIAN BALANCE

pared to the rest of Europe but how long can Austria go on if Germany collapses? That is the big question today and what is true of Austria is true of other countries like Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Rumania, Bulgaria, and Jugoslavia.

NOT INDEPENDENT

The fact is, Austria is not economically independent. She can never get along without cereals, meats, and coal. Her deficits at present are being met by an international loan and the estimate at the present moment is that at the end of 1924 the budget will be balanced.

But what can the nation do if industries become stagnant through outside influences? Thus far Austria has to some extent benefited by the plight of Germany, for exchange has been stabilized here and business has come to Vienna which otherwise might not have come. If, on the other hand, the powers reach an agreement about Germany, reparations and internal troubles are avoided in Germany, then Austria is destined to become one of the best countries in Europe. Austria has consented to the administrative control of her finances, which means efficiency. International bankers would not agree to lend money unless the League of Nations undertook to supervise the expenditures of public monies and the collection of customs revenues.

LIKE U. S. PROTECTORATES

Doctor A. R. Zimmerman, receiver-general here for the league, controls the purse-strings of Austria. His position is not unlike that of the receiver-generals appointed by the United States government to supervise the collection of customs in Haiti and San Domingo, so that the foreign investors might be assured of the interest and principal of their loans. It is an interesting subject for speculation whether American political protagonists would permit the United States government to stand back of the receiver-general in Austria as have the allied governments of Europe, when it is a matter of record that President Roosevelt, McKinley, Taft, Wilson, and even Harding have approved the continued operation of the same plan in Haiti and San Domingo for the benefit of American, French and British investors.

LEAGUE PROUD OF WORK

Dr. Zimmerman is a capable administrator and the league takes a good deal of pride in the job it has done in Austria, but it is a fact that to the good sense of Dr. Ignaz Seipel, the chancellor of the Austrian government, himself a priest who receives you in the garments of the church, is due much of the credit for what has happened. He saw the need of yielding governmental powers to the outside receiver as the only means of getting the confidence of foreign investors and thus saving Austria from ruin.

It is an interesting story of foreign and being better than Communism or complete subjugation.

Internally, Socialists are in a minority and there is a tendency on the part of the Fascist organizations to grow stronger, but the entente between Zimmerman and Seipel will keep things on an even keel for some time to come unless little wars break out around Austria, or Germany collapses.

PICNICS

Six hundred persons attended the outing Sunday at Brighton beach given by the Montefiore Jewish Ladies Aid society. The grounds and pavilion were elaborately decorated giving the whole place a festive air. During the afternoon all kinds of games, stunts and races took place with special features arranged for the women and children. A baseball game between the married and single men was won by the single men.

An attraction creating a great deal of amusement was a court held on the grounds and to which any one was taken who performed an act considered unlawful. A trial was held and the culprit forced to pay a fine to the "judge."

A dancing party was held in the evening at which 250 couples were present. Guests were present from cities in Wisconsin, Michigan and from Chicago.

CAPITOL AVENUES FILLED WITH GLOOM

front the station and from the roof of the silent capitol beyond. He will come to honors prepared for him such as only dead president's may know and to a night of peace and utter rest at last in the dim stately setting of the east room of the White House.

Before the time when the train was to arrive, the cavalry escort from Fort Myer was to form a line across the plaza at the station and wait until the casket is delivered into keeping of the army comrades of the dead commander-in-chief to be carried to the White House as fallen soldiers are carried. A battery of field guns has been ordered to wait at the station and over at the entrance, the marine band has been ordered to take up its position, ready to share in the sorrow, as it has so often through the years led the joy of the nation.

No pains had been spared that each man and animal might do honor to the dead in his appearance. Blooded mounts of officers and rangy troop horses and gun teams were groomed Tuesday until they shone. The men themselves are to dress in olive drab with tan-brimmed caps low over their eyes—and chin straps framing their tanned, young faces. At each officer's sword hilt rested a cluster of crepe that will stay there a month in token of the nation's loss. The colors will bear long streamers of black. Within the station, President Coolidge and the cabinet members were to take their places to greet the train out in the long shed. The great concourse with its high glass roof, was to be swept clear of all but the official group and those immediately connected with the sorrowful functions.

TROOPS SALUTE

The funeral program called for no ceremonies or greetings at the train or elsewhere except for the strains of the band and the salute of the troops outside. There was to be just the slow walk behind the casket down the silent concourse and out through the president's room to the awaiting gun carriage. Arrangements had been made to spare Mrs. Harding even this, and a closed car is to hurry her by a different route to the White House in order that she might be there when the casket is lifted down and carried into its first night of quiet since it started from San Francisco.

Two troops of cavalry were ordered to lead the way from the station swinging off at a quick trot for the swift journey to the capitol grounds, then down around the peace monument to Pennsylvania-ave. and on to the treasury, and finally through the shaded grounds of the executive mansion. The funeral caisson drawn by four black horses, was allotted the next place in line, close on the heels of the troopers. Then the long string of motor cars bearing President Harding's traveling party to the sad conclusion of their long journey was to follow, then other cars carrying President Coolidge and the official folks of Washington. Behind these were to be arrayed the third troop of cavalry and rumbling guns of the artillery to bring up the rear of the escort.

At the White House, orders to the troopers directed that they swing aside to line up along the broad avenue and sit silent with sabres "at present" when the caisson passes and, followed by the motor cars, turns in through the gates to stop before the wide door of the mansion. Not until the casket vanishes through that door will the steel flash down to be sheathed and the troopers ride away to prepare for the greater ceremony Wednesday.

The official party was to break up at the White House those who made the fateful journey with President Harding are expected to go to their homes only to re-assemble at the train Wednesday evening and be with him to the last, when the casket is lowered to its final resting place in the quiet cemetery at Marion. For Tuesday night it will lie at the White House untroubled by the pomp and circumstance of the nation's woe, and with only the sorrowing widow and close friends to watch through the long hours until the nation again claims its great dead.

CAN'T MOVE BOAT FROM CROCHE DAM

Cook and Brown Co. Trying To Float Barge Grounded
For Two Weeks

Special to Post-Crescent
Kaukauna—An effort was made Saturday to float the Cook and Brown Co. barge No. 3 which has been grounded on the Croche dam below Kaukauna for about two weeks.

The tug Carter and Junior, and steamers Herman Hutz and Wolf, which were made fast to trees above the barge, wound on big hawsers snubbed to the barge with their steam capstans, breaking one hawser after another.

The barge with its bow clear of the water, protruding over the dam, presents a problem to the Cook and Brown Co., which has been ordered by the government to remove it from the dam.

It is the opinion of rivermen that a light should be placed at the entrance to the Croche canal, which would help to avoid similar accidents in the future.

Hungry Fish, Chasing Plug, Lands In Boat

Kaukauna—There isn't a person living who hasn't heard fishermen, with their characteristic regard for the truth, describe their favorite fishing ground as a place where the fish jump into the boat and sometimes they add a little variety by solemnly declaring that it is necessary to hide behind a tree to bait a hook. Now comes Eddie and Ray Johnson, from whom there are no more truthful people in the whole city of Kaukauna, with a tale that a 4-pound pickerel actually did jump into their boat while they were fishing near New London. With their hands on a stack of Bibles, the fishermen declare that Eddie had pulled his lure of the water preparatory to a fresh cast when a big pickerel leaped for the plug. He shot clear of the water and landed squarely into the boat. The fishermen were about as surprised as the fish but they soon recovered their stupefaction and gaffed the pick. This is a fishy sounding story but we'll leave it to Eddie and Ray to prove it.

COOPERATIVE POULTRY ASSOCIATION FORMED

Madison—Falling in line with Wisconsin tobacco growers, cheese and butter producers and cherry producers the poultrymen in Polk, Barron and Burnett counties have formed a poultry association for marketing cooperative live poultry and poultry products.

Efforts to organize the association proved fruitful and the first car of live poultry was sent to the Chicago market, accompanied by County Agent Klinka of Polk county, who is serving as temporary manager of the association. The return from the poultry will be pro-rated among the shippers, this being the same plan followed in live stock shipping co-operatives.

This new addition to the co-operative marketing field was brought about through the combined efforts of County Agent J. S. Klinka, Jens Jensen and O. Sorenson, all of Polk county, and E. H. Thompson, county agent in Burnett county.

Piles

Can't Be Cured from the Outside
External treatments seldom cure Piles.
Nor do surgical operations.
The cause is inside—bad circulation.
The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.
The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.
To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must first cure the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.
J. S. Leonard, M. D. a specialist, has at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Schlitz Bros. Co., who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

Autoists Spend Night Camping In Tree Top

Sleeping in a tree house among the branches of an immense maple tree in a private camping ground at Grimsby, Ont., was the novel experience of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ingold and son John, who returned Saturday night from a 2,500 mile automobile trip through the Adirondacks, New England and a portion of Canada.
The tree house, or honeymoon huts as they are often called, are a jungle innovation introduced by Archie Burland, a retired farmer, speculator, traveler and philanthropist, whose camp is known as Maplewood and is attracting tourists from all parts of the country.
The houses are 8 feet high and about 10 feet square with ample doors, windows and a 2-foot veranda. Inside are comfortable cots provided with mattresses, pillows and fine bedding. The unique "roost" is accessible by way of a firm stairway. The tree houses are occupied every night by tourists fortunate enough to gain admission to the grounds and the owner is planning to increase the number.

Mr. Ingold's party went by boat from Milwaukee to Muskegon, Mich., and from Detroit to Buffalo, and avoided public camping grounds on the entire trip. They took camping equipment with them and camped only when not convenient to hotels.

BUY STAMPS WHERE THEY ARE TO BE USED
Allowances For Postal Help
And Salaries Based On Sales Of Stamps
The cooperation of local merchants, manufacturers and other heavy users of the mails is asked by the United States postal department at Washington in its request that all postage stamps be purchased at the home office.
The fact that some branch offices secure their supply of postage stamps from company headquarters in other cities is the one obstacle in the way of the complete success of the present method of rating postmasters of the first, second and third class for fixing salaries. This method, it is said, is fixed by law and cannot be changed by the department. Not only is the postmaster's salary, but also the allowance for clerk hire and other expenses based upon the receipts and not upon the quantity of work at the office.
CUTS OFF ALLOWANCE
Operating as a check and a balance and preventing the employment of unnecessary help in some offices where there is a tendency to waste, the system keeps the service machinery at a standard of efficiency commensurate with the requirements of handling the mails.
Purchase of stamps at other than the home office is inequitable to the postmaster, as it tends to hold down his salary; it is unfair to the clerks who must handle additional mail without its being credited toward increased allowance, but it is unjust also to the regular patrons whose mail must be of necessity delayed by the influx of entirely unexpected mail matter, it is declared.
Some firms reluctant to make the change because they prefer to get their stamp supply from their main office, as these are perforated with the firms initials to render them less marketable to dishonest employees. Others solve this problem by instructing their agents or branch offices, when making a regular remittance to the home office, to render a certain portion in postage stamps. The stamps are then perforated and sent to the branch office for use there.

The New Hupmobile

We feel sure that every Hupmobile owner, or even observer, will agree with us that in order to dominate its field, the Hupmobile has only to improve upon its own past.

In this new Hupmobile, that triumph has been accomplished in every important essential—with results in performance so brilliant that they validate more strongly than ever its legitimate right to be called the best car of its class in the world.

We direct the attention of Hupmobile owners in particular to these results, which they can absolutely count upon in the new Hupmobile:—

Noted as the Hupmobile has always been for settling down instantly to smooth, steady straight-ahead going, this new Hupmobile has a coasting, skimming quality that surpasses any Hupmobile which has preceded it.
Prized as the Hupmobile has always been for smooth operation, this new Hupmobile is even more free from noticeable vibration.
Celebrated as the Hupmobile has always been for snapping away in the flash of a second, this new Hupmobile is even quicker on the trigger than any Hupmobile before it.

Easy-riding as the Hupmobile has always been, this new Hupmobile—in front and rear alike—outdoes all of its predecessors in bump-absorbent spring action and restful riding.
Comfortable as the Hupmobile has always been, this new Hupmobile is more roomy and affords greater convenience to driver and passengers alike.

These magnificently improved performance qualities are produced by the engineering and other changes detailed below

The new Series R-12 Hupmobile embodies improvements in motor, clutch, and transmission, in addition to a longer chassis and new body models throughout.
The net results of the engineering improvements are longer life, still smoother operation, better engine operating balance, an increase of power, and pronounced increase in acceleration and economy.
Heavier crankshaft, counter-balanced, with bearing areas 20 per cent greater. Light-weight alloy pistons and connecting rods.
Maximum increase in power, about 10 per cent.
New two-plate clutch affords silent gear changes at all speeds.
Transmission gears high carbon alloy steel, oil-treated and tempered—larger, heavier, longer-lived.
Wheelbase lengthened to 115 inches. Length of front springs increased to 37 3/8 inches; the rear springs are increased 5 inches, to 56 1/2 inches.
Frame now 6 inches deep. Five heavy cross members.
Spring shackle bolts increased 50 per cent in bearing surface.
Radiator 2 1/2 inches higher, improving both appearance and cooling efficiency.
Newest style full crown fenders.
Drum headlights on all models—nickel-plated on the special types.
Touring Car—Finish, new Hupmobile blue, striped in lighter blue. Top clear vision type, with no rear upright bow. Each storm curtain has rigid metal frame which prevents the curtain light becoming scratched or cracked, makes curtains fit even more closely, and their installation much easier and quicker.
Roadster—Body entirely new. A fast, smart, rakish runabout.
Special Touring and Roadster—Steel wheels, nickel-plated radiator, headlights and cowl lights; scuff plates.
Sedan—A graceful sweeping curve marks the line where body and cowl meet; rear body corners gently rounded, windows reduced in height, and made wider. Upholstery very durable gray cloth, body hardware bright nickel. Equipment includes rear view mirror.
Coupe—Four Passenger—Gracefully rounded curves instead of bevels and corners. Upholstery, body hardware and equipment same as Sedan.
Coupe—Two Passenger—Roof slightly lower, space under rear deck increased.

THIEDE GOOD CLOTHES

THE RED REDMAYNES

By EDEN PHILPOTTS
ILLUSTRATED BY R.W. SATTERFIELD

COPYRIGHT 1922 THE MILLER COMPANY
RELEASED BY NEA SERVICE INC., AROG, MET. NEWSP. SVS.

Her grandfather still lived, when first I met her, and the extent or disposition of his wealth seldom entered our calculations. Jenny was ready to wed me and begin life as my twin star, while I longed for her with a great longing. The situation cleared, her grandfather died, she would presently be the possessor of ample means and I already enjoyed an income from the business of Pendon and Trearow.

Then came the war and the sentence of death incidentally pronounced by that event upon the brothers Redmayne. Their own folly and lack of vision were alone responsible. I did not argue with them, it was enough that Jenny swiftly awakened to even a bitter hatred and a deeper fury of resentment than myself. They had roused the sleeping tempest and our lightning now became only a question of time.

I evaded active service with a heart druck, as did some thousands of other intelligent men. I kept a whole skin, stopped at home and received for my share the Order of the British Empire instead of a nameless grave. It was easy enough.

Meantime we volunteered and our record of service at Princetown Moss Depot is not to be assailed.

Already my future intention was coloring my life. I grew a beard, wore glasses and pretended delicacy of constitution; for after the war was done I intended murdering three men, and I proposed to do so in such a manner that society would find it impossible to associate me with the crimes.

We pretended an affection for Dartmoor. As an example of our far-reaching methods, I may relate how we returned to the wilderness after the war was done and actually began to build a bungalow upon it, which, needless to say, we never had the least intention of occupying.

I had designed first to destroy Bendigo and Albert Redmayne, who had never seen me, finally deal with my old friend, Robert; but it was he who came at the critical moment as a lamb to the slaughter and so inspired the superb conception now familiar to the civilized world.

The time was ripe to pluck these men who had insulted and outraged me; and when Bendigo Redmayne advertised for a motor boatman, the challenge was accepted. I forced certain foreign letters of commendation. He liked Italians, from experience of them aboard ship, and he appreciated my letter and my imaginary war record.

What was the next step? An entrance from Jenny that I should shave my beard. She begged again and again and appealed to Robert, who supported her. I withstood them until the day of his destruction. Upon that morning I appeared without it and they congratulated me. Other trifling preliminaries there were. On one occasion, when my wife rode down to Plymouth with her uncle on his motor bicycle, she left him to do some shopping and, visiting Burnell's the theatrical costumer, she purchased a reg wig for a woman. At home again she transferred it into red wig for a man. Meantime I had made a pair of large mustaches, helping myself when Mrs. Gerry, our landlady, was out of the way to hair from the brush of one of her stuffed foxes, whose color exactly resembled the rufous adornments of Robert Redmayne.

When we started on his motor cycle, after tea, to do some work at the bungalow, I took a handbag containing my costume as Giuseppe Doria—a plain, blue serge suit, coat, waistcoat and trousers and yachtman's cap. I also carried a tool—the little instrument with which I murdered the three Redmaynes. It resembled the head of a butcher's poleaxe, of great weight with the working end sharpened. I made it in a forge at Southampton and it lies today under the waters of Como. My bag I had taken on previous occasions to the quarry, with a bottle of whisky and glasses, so Robert thought it not strange that I should do so again.

turned and the poleaxe head went through his skull like butter. The gloaming had long thickened to darkness when I went my way and laid the trail through Two Bridges, Postbridge and Ashburton to Brixham. Once only was I bothered—at the gate across the road by Brixham coast-guard station; but I lifted the motor bicycle over it and presently ascended to the cliffs of Berry Head. Fate favored me in details, for, despite the hour, there were witnesses to every step of the route.

On the cliff I emptied my sack, cast its stuffing to the winds, fastened my handbag to the bicycle, thrust the blood-stained sack into a rabbit hole, where it could not fail to be discovered, and then returned to Robert Redmayne's lodging at Paignton. There, a telegram had already been sent, informing the landlady of his return that night. I changed into the serge suit, car and brown shoes of Doria and packed Redmayne's clothes, tweeds and showy waistcoat, boots and stockings into my handbag with the wig and mustaches and my weapon. I walked to Newton Abbot and reached that town before six o'clock. At the railway station I breakfasted and presently took a train to Dartmouth. Before noon I reached "Crow's Nest" and made acquaintance with Bendigo Redmayne.

But he had little leisure for me at this moment, for there had already come news from his niece of the mysterious fatality on Dartmoor.

Needless to say that my thoughts were now entirely devoted to my wife and I longed for her first communication. Our briefest separation caused me pain, for our souls were as one and we had not been parted save for my visit to Southampton since our marriage day.

It was her exquisite thought to involve the man from Scotland Yard. When I sought to destroy him on Giant and believed that I had done so, the man displayed an ingenuity for which I did not give him credit and unconsciously laid the foundations of subsequent disaster.

The letter which Bendigo Redmayne received, and supposed had come from his brother at Plymouth, was posted by Jenny on her journey to "Crow's Nest." We had written it together a week earlier and studied her uncle's indifferent penmanship very carefully before doing so.

We supposed to let six months pass before the death of Bendigo Redmayne, and we were already contemplating details and considering how best to bring his brother back upon the stage for the purpose of Ben's destruction, when Mark Brendon blundered in upon us once again. I swiftly brought Robert Redmayne to life; and though, with more leisure, for refinements, I should not have clothed him in his old attire, yet that crude detail possessed a value of its own and certainly served to deceive Brendon.

Of subsequent events, most are so familiar that there is no need to retrace them.

My tears fall when I think of my incomparable Jenny and her astounding mastery of minutiae at "Crow's Nest"—her finesse and exquisite touch, her kittenlike delicacy, her catlike swiftness and sureness. The two being involved were as children in her hands. Oh, precious phoenix of a woman, you and I were of the same spirit, knesaded into our clay; I say that accident made a radical alteration of design vital for I had intended, on the night when Robert Redmayne would come and see Bendigo, to murder the old sailor in his tower room and remove him before morning with my wife's assistance. But the victim postponed his own destruction, for upon the night when his death was intended, during my previous conversation with him touching Jenny, I had perceived, by his clumsy glances and evidence of anxiety, that somebody else was in the tower room—Brendon.

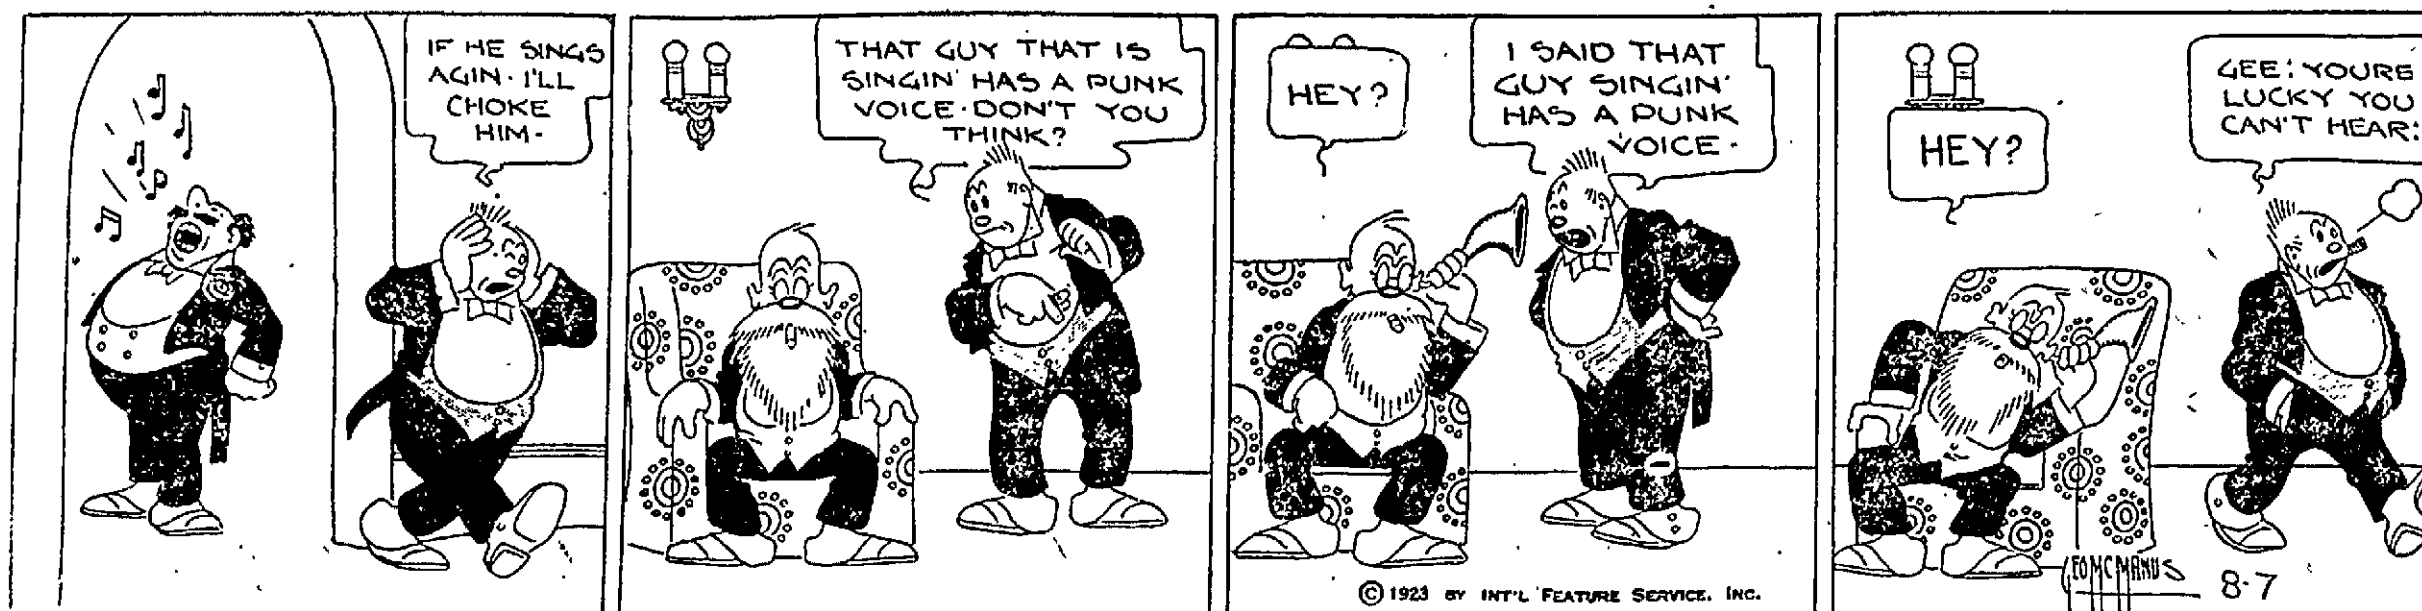

There was but one hiding place and but one man likely to occupy it. I did not indicate that I had discovered the secret and it was not the detective who gave himself away; but, once alive to his presence, I swiftly marked a flash of light at one of the little ventilation holes in the cupboard and perceived that our sleuth stood hid within it.

Having conveyed the old sailor to the cave, where on my recent run up the coast after dropping Brendon, I had already looked in and lighted the lamp, I landed behind him and, as his foot touched the shore, the poleaxe fell. He was dead in an instant and five minutes later his blood ran upon the sand.

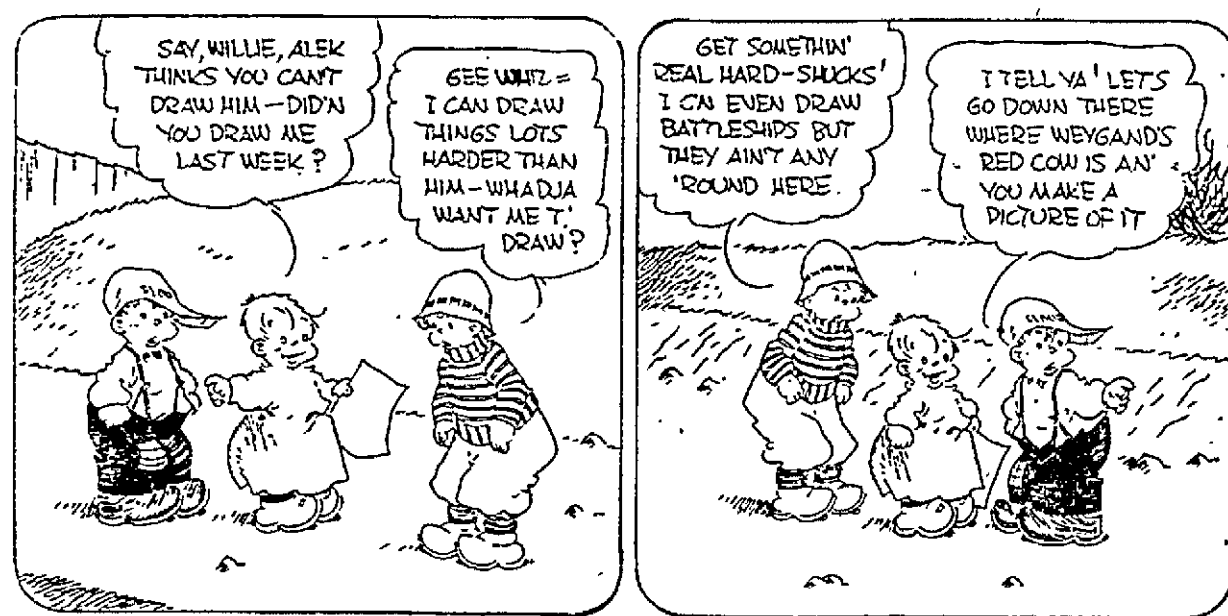

Once more my amazing wife and I parted for a brief period and then I had the joy of introducing her to Italy, where the remainder of our task awaited us.

Nuts Provide Food Value Of Rich Quality

Fall days will bring new nuts and one of the autumn pleasures is to gather the winter's supply.

In some parts of the United States we have the pecan, one of the finest flavored nuts; the black walnut, and in California the wonderful almond, which the figures in the history of cookery trace centuries.

It is probably possible to use the almond in a greater variety of dishes than any other nut, with the possible exception of the peanut.

NUTS AND MEAT

Someone has said that instead of considering nuts as a meat substitute meat should really be called a nut substitute.

Nuts are nature's meat, used, perhaps, before any cooking was known. We have grown accustomed to using nuts as an addition to a meal, combining them with raisins and fruit.

That combination is ideal, but might take the place of a part of the meal, supplying the body's needs, instead of coming at the end.

Nuts are a very concentrated food material, and a much smaller portion of a nut loaf is needed than that of a meat dish.

Many nuts are rich in oil, as peanuts and walnuts. Some contain a large proportion of starch, as chestnuts.

Chestnuts can be eaten as we eat potatoes, and when boiled and mashed can be made into croquettes and desserts.

Many think a chestnut stuffing a necessity for a turkey if one wishes to have the best tasting turkey. Peanuts chopped and mixed with bread and seasonings are certainly a delicious stuffing for duck.

FRUIT NECESSARY, TOO

When many nuts are eaten fruit is necessary to regulate the system. For that reason a nut and fruit salad is a good combination.

Cookies with nuts in them are good for children.

Instead of frosting a cake, occasionally try this. Just before placing the nuts in the oven sprinkle the top of the cake batter with shredded almonds and powdered sugar. Bake being careful not to brown the top too much.

Brown or maple sugar and cream cooked with nuts make a delicious candy. Any combination of nuts and sweet chocolate is one of the best sweets for the children's lunch box.

Adventures Of The Twins

Goodby To Raggy Land

The Twins helped the Raggies all spring, nice little fellows that they were.

Mister Tatters still wore his old overalls, and all the queer little Raggies wore their queer, ragged little clothes. They never once put on the nice clothes Nancy had made for them. They had put away their funny little houses under the ground.

But one day something happened. There was a knock on the outside door of Raggy Land and when Nick went up the magic steps to see who was there, Nimble Toes, the Fairy Queen's messenger, ran lightly down.

In her hand she held a letter.

"A letter from her Royal Highness to the Twins," she announced, making a fine bow and handing the letter to Nancy.

Nancy opened it and read it out aloud.

"Dear children," it said.

"If you are all through helping the Raggies, will you please come back to my Palace. I have an errand for you to do in Choo-Choo Land, please return as soon as you can."

"Tours lovingly,"

"The Fairy Queen."

"Oh, I'm sorry," said Nancy quickly to Mister Tatters. "But if you don't need us any longer we'd better be going."

"That's all right," said Mister Tatters. "We go all through with everything, and you've been ever so kind. We'll never forget you."

"Then we'll say goodby," said Nancy, turning to bid farewell to the other Raggies. To her surprise they had all disappeared. But only for an instant. One by one they came back, this time all dressed up in their new clothes.

"We'll wear them until next spring," said Rag Tag proudly.

Soon the goodbys were over, and the Twins followed Nimble Toes up the magic steps.

And so, my dears, when you look for Raggy in the woods he may be in tatters, or dressed in his Sunday best. I'm sure I don't know which.

American Mother Rearing Most Perfect Babies On Earth

BY MARIAN HALE

New York — The modern American baby has scored again!

He walks sooner, has stronger muscles and is a finer specimen physically than the baby of 50 years ago.

So says Dr. J. L. Blumenthal, director of baby hygiene of the New York department of health.

"This is because he has a sensible mother, who dresses him more comfortably than a baby was ever dressed before in the history of the race," says the doctor.

"Long dresses, swaddling clothes, and too many garments retard the normal growth, and keep the baby from the development of which he is capable."

AMERICA FIRST

In a recent health and fashion show for babies, held in New York, foreign born mothers representing Arabia, Turkey, Italy, China, Syria brought their babies in national costume to act as tiny mannequins and show how the babies of different races are clothed—and how superior the American method is.

Through the foreign children's costumes are very picturesque. Dr. Blumenthal points out that from the point of comfort and health, the American baby's is infinitely superior.

"For summer weather," he states, "the baby's outfit should consist of a band, soft shirt, short dress and hand knit socks and booties."

"Knit coverings for the feet are approved because nothing heavy or stiff should be put on a baby's feet until he can walk, but the feet should be protected to keep the body temperature even. On hot days the socks and booties are easily slipped off until the temperature lowers."

KNITTED WOOL BEST

"A soft-knitted wool jacket is advisable for wear on cool mornings and evenings. Such a garment gives a baby adequate protection, but does not bind him anywhere and keeps his arms free so he may exercise them at will.

Woman, 51, Completes Course In High School

East Moline, Ill.—There will be "records" of oldest and youngest high school graduates this year, as in years past. But what "oldest" graduate will come forth with a record that could equal that of Mrs. Martha M. Hubbs, who has received her diploma from the East Moline High School here?

True, Mrs. Hubbs has a challenge, already. She is Miss Isha Lively, who graduated this month from the University of Tulsa Academy at Tulsa, Okla. She's 45 and is preparing to enter the University of Tulsa next fall.

But Graduate Hubbs claims higher honors, for several reasons.

First, Mrs. Hubbs is 51—six years older than Miss Lively.

Second, she has had to postpone her high school education because she has been busy mothering nine children and acting as chief wage earner in place of her invalid husband. She was able to return to school two years ago, when her children grew up.

Miss Lively, however, kept up her studies while she taught in the public schools in Tulsa, and has taken special courses at the University of Arkansas and Oklahoma Northeastern State Normal School.

Third, Mrs. Hubbs is going to enter the University of Wisconsin in the fall, as a freshman, while Miss Lively will have only two more years' work in college before she gets her A. B. degree.

But both have one or two things in common. In their effort to achieve a higher education, Mrs. Hubbs is graduating with her 17-year-old daughter, Theresa, and will enter college with her, Miss Lively, the report comes from Tulsa, will enter college with her niece, who is graduated from a suburban high school here.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO HER FRIEND, SALLY ATHON

DEAR SALLY:

I hope you will not think that I do not sympathize with you over the disaster that has come to Sam but, Sally dear, I did not know what to say. Mere words seem almost insultingly futile.

Beatrice wrote me that you were being forced to shoulder the entire burden of financing your marital ménage.

I do not forget, dear, how good you were to me when you were a big girl in an upper grade in our boarding school and I was a little kiddie, and I know that my mother also has a great and tender feeling toward you for your kindness to me then.

I looked upon you as a regular princess, for your mother and father were alive and you were known as the richest girl in the school. Little did I think that I would ever be writing this letter but, Sally, will you take this just as I offer it? Will you let mother who is coming here next week, send you a check until you can see your way clear?

Under the same circumstances I know you would do it and surely you do not love me any better than I do you, although we both have been very poor correspondents.

Lovingly,

LESLIE.

LETTER FROM SALLY ATHON TO LESLIE PRESCOTT

I cannot tell you, dear Leslie, how your letter touched me. I thought all my friends had forgotten me, except Bee, and I had grown hard and somewhat wicked. But with your letter there also came one from Vera Stokley. She had heard of my trouble and she sent me her entire allowance for the next three months—at least it was the amount of her allowance when she was in college. Maybe she has more now.

I just sat down and cried, Leslie, and poor old Sam, who was lying on the sofa, cried too.

"I've only been a disgrace and grief to you, Sally," he said. "Why don't you turn me out in the cold?"

And then I thought of some words that Bee wrote me and something broke up in the ice that had surrounded my heart. I knew that I did love Sam and would always love him and would work for him and care for him. I went over to him and pressed my lips upon his sightless eyes and whispered, "For better or for worse."

Oh, Leslie, this being married is a very solemn business, isn't it? No matter how saddened you are, how grieved you are, how angry you are or how tortured you are with it, there is a kind of band-iron band, perhaps, I would call it—that keeps drawing you and your husband tighter together. And each day something is always driving in another rivet to make the band stronger.

Although the band chafes and hurts you, when you try to break it, all at once you realize that your husband and yourself are one.

Now Leslie, I have some news which is perhaps not quite hopeless. I took some of Vera's money to pay for the opinion of one of the most noted eye specialists in the country and he tells me that there is a great probability that Sam will regain his sight. Thank God for me, Leslie.

Your grateful

SALLY.

SISTER Mary's KITCHEN

COLD BOUILLON

Jellied bouillon is more to be desired in hot weather than hot bouillon. There is just as much nourishment in the cold soup as in the hot. Serve in bouillon cups with crisped wafers.

There is a distinct advantage in serving bouillon as the first course rather than a fruit cocktail, in that it leaves the fruit for a salad or dessert.

Cold bouillon needs to be more highly seasoned than hot.

The jelly must be delicate and tender rather than thick and tough, and should be clear and sparkling. Care must be taken that all fat is removed before serving.

JELLIED BOUILLON

Six pounds knuckle of veal, 1 head celery, 2 onions, 2 carrots, 2 tablespoons salt, 1 teaspoon pepper, 3 quarts water.

Have bone well cracked and sawed. Cut meat in inch pieces. Cut onions in halves and carrots in inch slices. Wash celery and use good tops. Cut in inch pieces.

Put all ingredients in soup kettle, using cold water. Bring slowly to the boiling point, skimming frequently. Let simmer without boiling for six hours. Strain and let cool. When cold remove fat. There should be about 1 1/2 quarts of stock.

To make the soup clear and sparkling, wash one egg. Break into a bowl, saving the shell, and beat slightly. Add egg and shell to cold stock and bring to the boiling point, stirring constantly. Boil three minutes. Simmer fifteen minutes. Strain through cheesecloth and set aside to cool. When cool put on ice to chill. This makes a clear light colored soup that is appetizing to see and delicious to eat.

The woman who prefers not to spend the time making her own stock will find the canned soups combined with gelatin a very good substitute.

ANOTHER WAY

One can canned bouillon, 2 cups water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 teaspoon onion salt, 1/2 teaspoon celery salt, 1/2 cup cold water, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatin.

Put soup, water and seasonings into a smooth sauce pan. Bring to the boiling point. Soften gelatin with cold water. Add boiling soup and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Set aside to cool. When cold put on ice to chill and set.

Put jellied soup into cups with a teaspoon.

A delicious vegetable soup is made with home-made stock or bouillon cubes of your favorite brand.

East, West May Meet As To Styles

New York—Did you ever wonder why women of the east and west never have got together on the matter of clothes? Why Paris, supposed center of the world's fashion, has never been able to spread its influence to the orient?

Well, it's something over which women have no control, if you'd take the word of Achmed Abdullah, son of the Near East, novelist and short story writer.

Women, he says, never can settle their differences in clothes until the men of the east and the west settle their own differences in ideals. For—and here's the only similarity the world over—women after all dress for the men.

But, explains Abdullah—

"Women of the occident and the orient dress for different types of men. The Islamic woman shrouds herself in veils to please her type while the American and Parisian flappers expose their shoulder blades and knee caps to please theirs."

"The oriental woman keeps her beauty veiled in public so she may never be conspicuous—that would displease the men of her family. The more high class she is the more she veils.

"The occidental woman flaunts her loveliness so it may arouse admiration from many men, knowing this will enhance her value in the eyes of the man she loves."

"Advertisements of pretty girls in various states of negligee, displaying hosiery, corsets and the intimate details of a woman's dress, would shock the oriental and ruin his illusions. The occidental man apparently is unmoved by them."

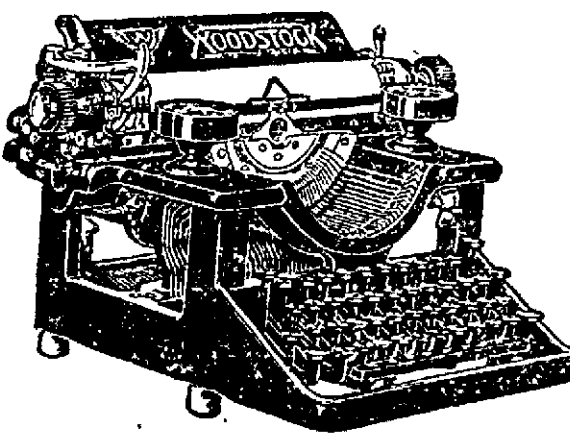

THOUGHTS DIFFER

"The oriental woman's veil is symbolic of her life and is an evidence of her understanding of men. It has nothing to do with her feminism or her lack of it."

These differences in dress merely reflect the differences you find in the mental attitude of the easterner and the westerner, the author thinks.

"The oriental keeps his emotions and thoughts carefully concealed, just as the woman does her body. In their books and art you find no psychological dissertations or sentimental revelations. Self-analysis has never thrived there. The intimate journal is unknown. Reticence everywhere shuts out the prying outsider."

"In the west the mind and the spirit are bared quite as freely as the body. These fundamental differences of viewpoint keep the east and west apart."

LOOK FOR BIG ATTENDANCE AT BOOSTER BASEBALL GAME

Appleton And Menasha Clash In Brandt Park Wednesday Afternoon

Future Of Baseball In Appleton
Depends Largely On Number Of Tickets Disposed Of For Benefit Contest

With several hundred tickets sold already and the demand growing every hour, indications point to a huge crowd at the booster baseball game at Brandt park Wednesday afternoon when Sylvester's pennant chasers clash with the league leading Chas from Menasha. The game is to start at 4 o'clock so that employees and businessmen will have an opportunity to attend.

Final preparations for the gala day were made Tuesday afternoon. Both teams will have their regular lineups in the field. Lathrop will work on the hill for the Papermakers and Tush is scheduled to do the heavy work for the visitors. The rest of the teams will be the same as for regularly scheduled games.

Appleton merchants have agreed to permit all their employees who have tickets to the game to leave the stores in time to reach the park at 4 o'clock. There was some discussion of a plan to close the stores and factories but it was decided that inasmuch as all the persons are not baseball fans that the same purpose would be achieved if those who wish to attend the game are given their liberty.

The Appleton club has been far from a financial success this season. The club, while not high priced, has been up with the winners from the start and now is only a half-game removed from first place. The quality of baseball played here has been as good as seen in most minor leagues of the country. No better pitching is seen anywhere.

Yet the fans have not been supporting the team in sufficient numbers to enable the magnates to pay their way and this booster game is necessary to tide them over. When Harry Sylvester and Walter Miller took over the club they knew they could not hope to make money out of their venture. They were confident, however, that the sport would even and they would be able to give Appleton baseball fans a lot of wholesome entertainment. Attendance at the games has not been sufficient to pay expenses. Debts have been piling up until the club is heavily burdened.

The booster game was arranged to help the owners get out from under their load. The future of baseball depends quite largely on the attendance Wednesday afternoon. If the fans do not show sufficient interest there is a large possibility that there will not be a club here next year. It is not likely that anyone will run the ball team when he is almost sure of running in to a loss.

MRS. STONE GETS LOW GOLF SCORE AT ANNUAL MEET

Frances Hadfield Of Blue Mound
Country Club Runner-up
With 90

Madison — Beating Miss Frances Hadfield, former champion, by two strokes, and Miss Bernice Wall, runner up of last year, by three strokes, Mrs. L. Stanley Stone, representing the Woodmont Country club, Milwaukee, headed the list of sixteen women to compete for the state golf title here on Monday.

With steady, consistent playing, Mrs. Stone was able to turn in her small score of 88 without any particularly spectacular play. Her driving was accurate and effective as well as her putting and approach.

As a result of her excellent play Monday morning, Mrs. Stone is looked to as the logical contender for the championship. Miss Hadfield and Miss Wall presented the feature playing of the day.

Miss Virginia Gittins, Green Bay, present champion was exempt from the qualifying round. The sixteen who qualified followed: Stone, 88; Hadfield, 90; Wall, 91; Cleophas, 91; Boyce, 93; Ruth, 94; Kessenich, 100; Landauer, 100; Green, 102; Evans, 102; Bourne, 103; Gallun, 105; Ossius, 105; Ludlow, 105.

BAIT CASTING

By M. J. V. Fose

"REELS"
A good reel is the most important part of a bait-casting outfit. This little piece of mechanism is put to the most gruelling work of the entire outfit and it is surprising, yes, remarkable, how a good reel that is finely balanced and fitted will stand the hard usage it is put to season after season and still be sweet running after a good many years of service.

The biggest mistake an angler can make is purchasing a cheap reel. The beginner or novice will profit in the long run by purchasing a high grade article, one that has been tried out and has proven that it will stand up. A good way to find out the name of a good reel is to ask some experienced bait caster who will gladly furnish the information.

I do not condemn all cheap reels for there are quite a few good reels on the market at a low price but they haven't the "lasting qualities" of the better grades. Then too, they are generally constructed of brass, nickel plated with straight gears or brass made by machinery, while the higher priced article has spiral gears of Hart drawn phosphor bronze that are hand cut and fitted, are noiseless in operation as well as perfectly balanced so that one can cast the lighter lures with greater ease.

The best reels have tool steel pivots—the hardest and most durable steel on the market for this purpose, phosphor bronze gears and either jeweled or metal bearings. The jewel bearing reels are the easier running of the two, while the metal bearings also have their good points. A bit of sand will grind a jewel bearing to pieces in short order while it has little or no effect on the metal bearing.

Some of the professional bait casters use reels with aluminum spools, however, this is not advisable for fishing as aluminum is too soft to stand the "grind." Then too, they use either surging silk or thread silk for a line for both distance and accuracy casting which would be utterly worthless in fishing. The spool of a reel should have at least a 50 yard capacity for fishing and if you find it a little large a filler can be wound on the reel to bring a 50 yard line up enough so that one has very little or no trouble in the thumbing when casting.

Reels that are made of nickel silver are the best "buys" in the long run as they do not get unsightly in a year or two of use and if given a cleaning occasionally will always retain their natural silvery look while the nickel plated article is usually out of business in a season or two.

I have a reel that has seen 14 years of service which was made by a manufacturer in Louisville Ky., and it is "just as good" if not better today than the day it was purchased. This reel is supposed to be one of the best known and durable reels on the market and it certainly has done its duty in my hands. The manufacturer of this article really sold out their rights to a manufacturer to a prominent manufacturer of steel rods in the east.

There are several new reels on the market at present. Some have level winding, and self thumbing devices. The self thumbing device is a boon to the angler who is contemplating a "trip" but who cannot cast. The level winding device is a good thing for any angler as it speeds the reel properly so that little or no trouble is encountered when using a reel of this caliber. Then the level winding device is convenient for a hands attachment in night fishing.

Reels, like any other piece of machinery, need care. They should be kept clean and should be oiled daily in order to prevent wear on the bearings and the finest reel made will wear out in a short time if it is used without oil.

OSHKOSH MANAGER DENIES ACCUSING LATHROP OF EMERY

Fred Beebe Says None Of His Affair Who Uses Barred
Ball In Games

There has been a great deal of controversy as to who started the movement against the emery ball in the state league since President T. E. McGillan issued his edict prohibiting the use of this tabooed delivery a week ago. While it is known that several of the pitchers of the State league are familiar with the use of this ball, no direct accusation was contained in the manager's ultimatum. Rumor had it, however, that Manager Fred Beebe of the Oshkosh Indians had accused "Big Bill" Lathrop of being partial to the "emery," which Beebe has now most emphatically denied. His denial follows:

"I don't know why my name had to be dragged into the matter, simply because President McGillan issued a warning against that kind of a ball. I have never claimed Lathrop or anyone else had used the emery ball and have made no such complaint or accusation. If the emery ball is being used anywhere in the circuit it is President McGillan's business to stop it, not mine and I do not intend to make it my affair. I wouldn't think of doing anything that would tend to throw Lathrop out of the league, for that would just about disrupt the Appleton club. I have always entertained a friendly feeling toward Appleton and Lathrop and have said nothing to anyone about any emery ball. I have no authority to go into the matter of an unfair ball. This is up to Mr. McGillan. I hope everything will work out satisfactorily and that the Appleton and Oshkosh clubs may continue their friendly relations."

VALLEY SPORTSMEN FIGHT DRAIN PLAN

Breeding Places Of Game Fish
In Mississippi Bottoms
Threatened

Oshkosh—Sportsmen from the cities in the Fox river valley are united in a campaign to prevent the draining of the Mississippi river bottoms from Lake Peoria, Ill., to Rock Island, Ill., for the reason that this contemplated drainage will remove valuable spawning grounds for game fish.

The United States Bureau of Fisheries reports that hundreds of millions of baby bass and many other kinds of game fish are taken from the sloughs and bottoms along the river and planted all over the middle west. A telling blow will be dealt to all anglers if these wonderful breeding places are destroyed, according to the fisheries bureau. These spawning grounds have been looked upon as one of the very few places still remaining in a natural state where spawning can be carried on without interference.

Experts say that the reclaimed area will be worthless for farming purposes. A distance of 250 miles will be affected by the proposed project.

Barnyard Golf Battle At Fair In Sheboygan

Sheboygan — Horseshoe pitching sometimes referred to facetiously as barnyard golf, is developing into a recognized sport in Sheboygan county. Last year it was admitted to the county fair as a regular contest and as the fair tournament determines the championship of the county it is the highlight point of the season.

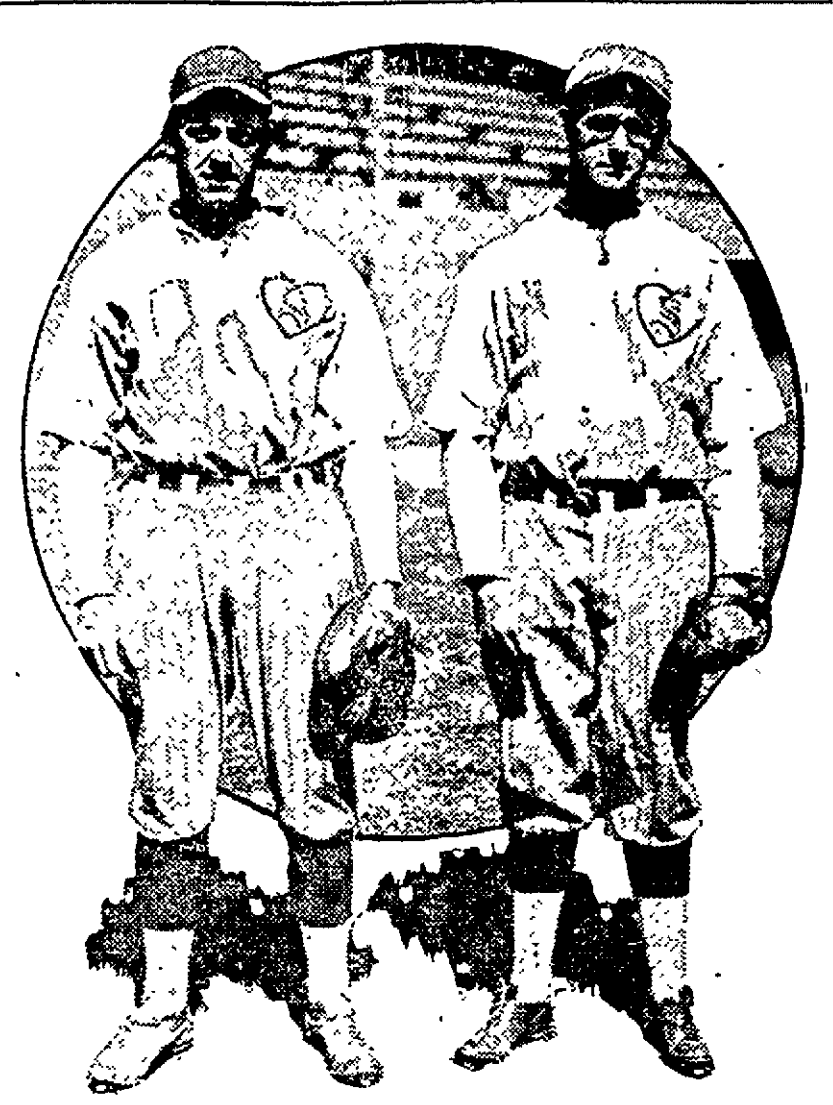

This year there will probably be 100 entries in the county championship. Sheboygan is carrying on an elimination tournament for the purpose of selecting sixteen of its best. Plymouth, Sheboygan Falls, Kohler and Elkhart Lake also will enter teams. The fair has hung up about $10 in cash prizes and there also are a number of merchandise prizes contributed. One prize will be a purchased Rhode Island Red consolation prize for the best score not winning a money prize.

TILDEN AND RICHARDS WILL NOT DEFEND TITLE

Philadelphia—William T. Tilden, Jr. and Vincent Richards, national doubles tennis champions for two years, will not defend their title at the doubles championship this year, it became known on Monday. Instead Tilden will pair with Alexander Godwin, his youthful protégé, and has sent their entry to the Longwood club of Boston, where the national doubles title play will begin Aug. 20.

A good policy is to take the reel apart at the end of the season, give it a good bath in gasoline, using a fine stick to get into the bearing holes and clean them out thoroughly. Wash the gears in this same solution and use a small brush to clean the teeth of the gears. When reassembling, put a little case oil on the pivots and the reel is good for another season with just a little oiling occasionally. With a little care a "good reel" will be the most satisfactory investment any angler can make and will repay its price two fold in service.

Battery Of Twins

Sacramento, Calif.—Several families boast of brothers in professional baseball.

Some brag of brothers in the majors—witness the O'Neills and Meusels, and until recently the Bigbees and Johnstons.

The Cleveland Indians have two brothers on the same team—the Sewells, Joe and Luke.

But the Shea family of Stockton, near here, boasts of two brothers not only playing on the same club, but forming a battery.

Cobb Predicts Manush Will Be Famous Batter

Detroit—A natural hitter who in side of a couple of years should be one of the most talked of batters in the major leagues, if he continues to improve and learn as rapidly as he has since the opening of the season.

There you have Ty Cobb's opinion of Heine Manush, recruit outfielder of the Detroit Tigers. Cobb, premier batsman, certainly should know.

Manush in his first year as a big leaguer is causing all kinds of trouble for the twirlers in the Johnson organization. Standing well over six feet and weighing about 190 pounds, Manush takes a cut at the ball that reminds you of Nap Lajoie, Hans Wagner, Sam Crawford or some of the other great hitters of yesteryear.

GIANTS GET SEVEN GAME LEAD ON REDS BY DOUBLE VICTORY

Babe Ruth Saves Game For Yanks, 5 To 3, By Twobagger With Bases Full

Chicago—Cincinnati's hope of gaining the pennant was sent zero-wad Monday when the New York Nationals, playing in Redland field, trimmed the Reds, 4 to 2, and then again, 5 to 4, the double victory placing the Giants seven games ahead of the third place Reds.

In New York, the St. Louis Americans were just preparing to celebrate a victory when Babe Ruth stepped to the plate, lined out a two bagger with the bases full and won the game, 5 to 3. Shocker, pitching for St. Louis, threw a wonderful game until he became incautious with the home run king.

Philadelphia Nationals made it two out of three in Pittsburgh by taking the game with the Pirates, 5 to 4. Pittsburgh errors accounted largely for the victory, a pair of poor plays by Carey and Maranville accounting for four runs in the first inning.

In Chicago, the Brooklyn Nationals made it two-all by trimming the Cubs, 5 to 1. The Chicago batsman turned out only six hits in the entire game against Dutch Reuther.

The Cleveland Americans cleaned up on the Senators in Washington, winning, 5 to 2. Speaker made a neat catch of Bush's fly in the ninth for the final out with two runs across and the bases filled for Washington. The Philadelphia Americans ran away with Chicago 15 Philadelphia and piled up 14 runs against the losers.

Chicago used four pitchers to no effect.

The Boston Americans beat the Tigers in Boston in a close pitchers' battle, 2 to 1. Piercy was the winning pitcher against Phillette. The Boston-St. Louis game was called because of rain.

KIMBERLY DEFEATS INTERLAKES, 3 TO 1 IN SATURDAY GAME

Cellucottons Keep Up Reputation
By Beating Coated
Paper, 16 To 5

Interlake put up a strong fight Saturday afternoon against the Kimberly-Clark team, but was beaten, 3 to 1. Fans are agreed that this contest was probably the best ever played by any of the factory clubs. Vaadenhevel pitched for the Kimberly tribe, being supported behind the log by Evers. The Interlake battery consisted of Last and Green.

Tuttle Press humbled the Fox River tribe, 8 to 2, in their Saturday encounter, due chiefly to the work of Pitcher Miller. His pitching was not sensational, but he used his head and judged the weaknesses of the opposing batters to perfection. The battery for the Tuttle Press team was Miller and Peetter; for the Fox River players, Radtke and Bibb.

CELLUCOTTONS WIN
Neenah's Cellucotton club kept up its recently established reputation as a winner by defeating the Coated Paper club, 16 to 5. The Cellucottons have not lost a game since the reorganization of the schedule several weeks ago, but the real test comes next Saturday when they invade Combined Locks, which has the strongest team of the circuit.

Thilmany succeeded in scoring only once against the Combined Locks club which piled up 19 runs. Versteegen and Wenzel were the Locks battery.

Sioux City, Ia.—Earl McArthur, Sioux City bantam, won from Buck Timothy of Davenport by a technical knockout in the third round of a scheduled ten round bout.

Cleveland, O.—Announcement was made of the purchase of Pitcher Levens, a graduate of Iowa State college by the Cleveland Americans from the Cedar Rapids, Ia. club of the Mississippi Valley league.

"LOW NECKS" PEEVE 'EM
Athens—A band of "zealots," led by a Prussian grocer, are administering coats of tar to women they find wearing low neck dresses in public.

DUNDEE WILL FIGHT FOR BENNY'S CROWN

New York—Johnny Dundee, who recently won the world's featherweight title from Eugene Criqui of France, will meet Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, in a fifteen round decision bout for the lightweight championship at the Yankee stadium, Wednesday evening, September 5, James J. Johnston, promoter, on Monday announced. Dundee will train at West Orange, N. J.

LANDS PHILLY BOUT

Philadelphia—Johnny Dundee, new featherweight champion, has been matched to box Eddie (Kid) Wagner of this city here on Aug. 27. They will fight at catchweights.

Hornsby Explains Slump In Homeruns

St. Louis—Last season Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Cardinals led the major leagues in home runs with 42 to his credit. This feat came as a surprise to baseball fans since Hornsby while a great batsman was never regarded in the light of a slugger.

This year Hornsby is batting as well if not better than last season, his mark hovering around the .400 mark, yet he is not manufacturing nearly as many home runs. While injuries have kept Hornsby out of a goodly number of games, his home run total for 67 games, is only 11.

What's the reason? Even Hornsby hasn't the slightest idea. "I didn't change my style last year when I made 42 home runs, simply took my usual healthy cut at the ball. I am doing the same this year. The only reason I can offer for my falling off in the matter of hitting home runs, is simply because I am not hitting the ball as far. This perhaps is due to the fact that I am not connecting with the ball as solidly. Making a home run is like landing a knockout punch, you must hit the right spot."

Nuss Getting Ready To Come Back In August

DePere—Jimmy Nuss is up north cultivating his haymaker. He is working on a farm at Abrams and when he isn't pitching he is wrestling with a 2165 pound pure bred Holstein sire, which he sends to the mat once every day. Ever since his ignoble defeat at Appleton, on July 4th, Jim has planned a comeback to show his loyal friends in DePere that he is still "all there." He now has another chance, and Aug. 16 is arranged as the date of his return to the roped arena. He is to fight "Navy" Rostan in Waterloo, Ia., with whom he fought a draw in Milwaukee several weeks ago. John Walsh is still directing his affairs.

Little Rock, Ark.—Fred Marberry, Little Rock Southern association pitcher, has been sold to the Washington club of the American league.

PROVIDE AUTOS FOR JOURNEY TO LEPLA'S FARM

All People Of County Urged To Be At City-Farm Meeting Thursday Night

Automobiles will be available for all Appleton people who want to attend the meeting of local business men and farmers and their wives at the Harry Lepla farm, highway 18, Thursday night.

The cars are to be assembled at the Insurance bldg at 6:30 and will go in a group to the farm. All automobile owners who can carry a few extra persons are asked to be there to accommodate those who have no machines.

Secretary Hugh G. Corbett of the chamber of commerce is anxious to have a large delegation from Appleton at this gathering when the farming situation will be discussed. All who want transportation are to notify the office of the chamber by Thursday noon. Every farmer in the county is urged to be present to hear the speakers and discussions.

The three men on the program are Frank Swoboda, manager of the Wisconsin Cheese Federation, Plymouth, whose subject will be "Successful Marketing"; D. K. Allen of Oshkosh, district attorney of Winnebago and a farmer himself; and Dr. D. O. Kinsman, head of the economics department of Lawrence college. Mr. Allen is to give an analysis of the farmer's business situation, and Dr. Kinsman is to compare conditions in the rural district with those of the city.

Each man is asked to bring his wife. Basket lunches also are to be brought and will be served on a table at the Lepla farm at 7 o'clock in the cafeteria style. The meeting which follows will be held on the lawn. The Lepla farm is at Lepla's corners, at the intersection of state highways 18 and 29.

IT'S PUBLIC DANCE IF ADMISSION IS CHARGED

Madison—The new dance hall law, requiring all dance halls to pay a license fee and forbidding minors to attend dances, is raising a number of questions concerning its administration. By a ruling of the attorney general's office on Monday, this law is held to apply to all dances to which the public is admitted upon payment of an entrance fee. It makes no difference if private individuals or private organizations give the dances, if admission is charged they are classified as public dances.

NEW LONDON MAN IS ACCUSED OF DOG THEFT

Charged with concealing stolen property, Mitchell Ross of New London was arraigned before Judge A. M. Spencer in municipal court Monday afternoon and thereupon bound over to the upper branch of the court for trial by a jury on Sept. 5.

The complaint was made by Ernest Marzahl of Kaukauna that he found his dog in Ross's possession after it had been missing for about a year. At the preliminary examination in municipal court Monday Marzahl testified that he saw the dog with Ross about a week ago and offered him $25 for the animal. When he returned with an officer, both Ross and the dog were missing, he said.

Marzahl valued the dog at $75. It is a registered pedigree beagle hound, colored black, white and tan.

A. employment agency and C. L. Boynton, employment secretary, succeeded in placing him in a position at the plant of the Interlake Pulp & Paper company the same day.

A Seattle, Wash., couple passed through Appleton Tuesday morning on their way to New York. They stopped here long enough to secure a supply of gasoline. Tourists were being charged 50 cents a gallon for gasoline by filling stations in the vicinity of Yellowstone park, they said. So far on their trip the couple paid all the way from 21 cents to 50 cents per gallon.

SENATE MAY OPPOSE COOLIDGE POLICY

Harding died. They will follow it just as closely under the new helm man at the White House.

There is no doubt that the senate leaders have agreed among themselves to try to persuade President Coolidge to "soft pedal" on the World Court issue. They can truthfully tell him that so far as the Republicans in the senate are concerned, the world court idea is not popular and there is not the slightest chance for a ratification of the Harding proposals at the coming session. In these circumstances, pressure will be brought to bear upon Mr. Coolidge to go through the form of presenting the world court proposals as framed by Mr. Harding, and then to let nature take its course in the senate.

Some of the senators will go so far as to tell President Coolidge that if he chooses to make the world court, or any other form of close international association, the outstanding policy of the brief White House period which lies before him, his administration will go upon the rocks. They will urge that he dispose of the court issue as quickly as possible and then turn his attention to the pressing domestic problems that confront the country.

MILLER GETS CONTRACT FOR REBUILDING CHURCH

Earl F. Miller, Incorporated, of Appleton, has been awarded the contract for the complete remodeling of Union Protestant church at Niagara. The church will be converted into a bungalow style. It will have a roof of diamond shaped paragon tinted asphalt shingles, with overhanging eaves and a new tower will add to the appearance of the structure. The sides and front of the building will be of paneled design with the panel openings filled with stucco of light cream tint with crushed pebble dash finish. The woodwork will be finished in white with black window sashes. An electrically lighted cross will adorn the bell tower.

Workman Injured

George LaPlant of Brandon, a laborer employed by the C. R. Meyer & Sons company, in the construction of the Lawrence bridge, was slightly injured Monday afternoon when he was struck by a 4 by 4 inch timber. He was removed to St. Elizabeth hospital. His injuries consisted of face lacerations and were not serious.

DEFER HOLSTEIN SALES MEETING

Conference On Policies Will Be Held At Annual Picnic Aug. 17

Inability to assemble the farmers for a meeting while in the midst of their oat harvest caused the Holstein sales conference scheduled for Tuesday to be postponed until Aug. 17, when it will be held in connection with the annual picnic of Outagamie County Holstein Breeders association at the George Schaefer farm, town of Clayton.

The breeders will get together sometime during the afternoon, according to Walter Wiekert, president of the county Holstein body, and will map out a sales policy at that time.

Farmers from seven nearby counties were to attend the sales conference here and will be notified to come to the gathering Aug. 17. This meeting is to be one of seven or eight which are being held over the state in dairy centers to adopt a uniform policy for sales of Holstein cattle. Regulations, sale terms and other practices will be proposed to the state association. A plan then will be mapped out which all associations will be expected to follow.

Attend Chilton Meeting

More than a dozen members of the Catholic Benevolent societies of Appleton attended the midsummer meeting of Fox river valley societies at Chilton Sunday. Five hundred members from Green Bay to Fond du Lac were present. The meeting was featured by two addresses, one by J. M. Senich of Milwaukee, and the other by Dr. H. A. Muench of St. Francis seminary, Milwaukee.

Nite on the Farm

A prize will be given Wednesday evening at the pavilion at Waverly beach for the best farmer costume on the floor. As the special feature for the evening is a "Nite on the Farm" chickens, pigs, cows and other creatures seen on a farm will be present. Gingersnaps and cider will be served.

Not one person in 50 of the present population uses his or her brain to half its full capacity, says a famous scientist.

HORSE BARN BURN AT FAIR GROUNDS

A fire of undetermined origin burned the old horse barn on the fair grounds at Hortonville Monday morning, completely destroying that building and doing considerable damage to the pine trees adjacent to it. All the other buildings were saved.

The old horse barn was one of the earlier buildings of the Hortonville fair grounds. Although the building had deteriorated to some extent, it was a complete loss to the association, since nothing was covered by insurance. It served its purpose as a shelter for horses, and to replace the building will entail considerable expense.

BELIEVE NORWAY DOCTOR WAS SLAIN BY ROBBERS

Goodman, Wis.—Marinette county officials on Monday were confronted with a mystery which may never be solved, when an inquest was held on Monday over Dr. L. C. Edgington, Norway, Mich., whose body was found on the Soo line tracks near here.

Dr. Edgington had left Pembine, Wis., for Minneapolis on a west bound train the night before, and officials are at a loss to explain how he came to be on the tracks where he was struck by the east bound train
